Chicago's Spring Flowers.
Tale of a Blind Man.
Had Washington Gone to Oxford.
Hear Gen. Pershing.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.

YOU ARRIVE HERE from California, where the weather has been "unusual," to find Chicago boasting about its marvelous climate.

There has been not one day of zero weather in twenty-four months. So you are told by the polite young Santa Fe man who hopes you had a good trip on his road. He adds that tulips are starting in his garden.

THE YOUNG MAN from the New York Central, who hopes you will have a good trip east, on his road, mentions crocuses, and says:

"We had all the windows open and the fans going in our office yesterday."

It is a positive fact that pansies are in bloom in J. M. Patterson's garden on the North Side. Mr. Drake, who runs the Blackstone Hotel, says:

We are having a strange winter.

CHICAGO FINDS it hard to collect taxes. Land owners say taxes and other things should go down when business becomes dull. Many refuse to pay any taxes. Mayor Cermak asks citizens to buy goods only in stores, thus help the city

The great Chicago exposition, soon to open, is almost ready, and will be worthy of Chicago. You must see that; bring your family.

THOSE WHO THINK it is the business of America to protect everybody, all over the globe, no matter what happens here, should study the case of Chicago's blind musician, Clinton Sabin, who long has played an accordion on the street, collecting pennies, his wife, Eva, guiding him through the crowd.

The gangsters wanted to get Albert Beczar and take him for a ride. So Beczar told Sabin, and the latter took him in to hide and protect him. It was his duty to help others.

Eva guides Sabin's steps no longer. She went off with Beczar, at least, that is Sabin's opinion, for they are both gone, and to make it worse, collections are bad.

LITTLE THINGS make big differences. Calvin Coolidge, writing of George Washington, mentions, but does not sufficiently emphasize, two important facts in Washington's career.

First, he was the youngest son, therefore he inherited a very small part of his father's property. Had he inherited more he might have taken less interest in public affairs.

SECOND, AND MOST important, Washington's father died when George was 11 years old. This sounds like misfortune, but it may have been extremely important for George.

Two older brothers had been sent to Oxford, by their father, who lived 12 years in England as a boy. If the father had lived, George might have gone to Oxford also. And he might have come back in a mood never to think of raising a hand against the dear mother country. Environment makes a difference.

GEN. PERSHING, writing for the current number of Good Housekeeping magazine, his first article since his book was published, asks this question:

"Is there any mother in America who prefers that her son should not know how to use a rifle now—when it isn't necessary — than that he should be forced to use it some day when he does not know how?

"Military preparedness is not an incentive to make war—it is a national insurance against war."

THOSE WHO BELIEVE that to be prepared means to make more war probable, and that to be unprepared makes you safe, should do two things. They should consider the situation of China today unprepared, facing an invasion by the well-prepared Japanese. And read Good Housekeeping's statement by Gen. Pershing.

This extract from his article should interest the most mistaken of pacifists:

"The war of the Revolution was perhaps our only unavoidable war. All our other wars might have been prevented if we had been adequately equipped before they began. The only reason why it is necessary to make an exception of the Revolution is that preparation was not possible because the Colonists could hardly raise and train an army under the very eyes of the British authorities—yet that, in some measure, is exactly what they did.

"I have said often and have yet to see why the statement should be altered, that if we had had a force of half a million trained men in the spring of 1917, not a professional army of half a million, but a small professional army plus a reserve of trained civilian manpower which could quickly have been incorporated into that army—the World War could have been won before the dawn of 1918.

"Had we had such a force in the spring of 1917, knowledge of its existence might conceivably have kept us out of the World War altogether."

To be strong is to avoid

LUPE VELEZ

Flies Here at Offer From Ziegfeld; Show Big Hit

Lupe Velez, peppery Mexican miss of the movies, was sleeping a beauty sleep at the William Penn Hotel this afternoon, probably dreaming of a new part in the Florenz Ziegfeld's show, "Hot-Cha," which opened here last night.

The vivacious brunet had flown to Pittsburgh today from Hollywood in answer to an urgent call from the producer himself. She left Hollywood at 3 a. m. Sunday and landed at Bettis Field yesterday afternoon.

SHOW SCORES HIT

En route, she and her manager kept in constant touch by radio with Ziegfeld in Pittsburgh, discussing salary and the part offered the movie star. It is expected a new part will be written for her in the show.

Crowds flocked to the Nixon Theater last night in their finest to see the curtain lift on the newest group of the glorifier's glorified girls.

The pre-curtain show was impressive, too, for Pittsburgh's debutantes, displaying the latest in opening-night fashions, did themselves justice.

ZIEGFELD OBSCURE

Paradoxically enough, Ziegfeld himself was among the obscure. Lounging in the lobby, he was unrecognized by the hundreds who had come to see the latest of his creations.

It was after midnight when the capacity audience and the standees filed out of the theater and, if the glorifier had mixed with them, his satisfaction would have been doubled, for their comments indicated that "Ziggy" had done it again—matched the success of innumerable "Follies," "Rio Rita," "Showboat" and "Whoopee."

Connellsville Dope Sellers Sent to Pen

A mother, her son and her son-in-law, convicted of conspiracy in connection with a Connellsville dope ring, today were sent to the federal penitentiary by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. Mrs. Mary Vorrasi, her son, Salvatore, 27, and Joseph Agosta, her son-in-law, were sentenced to two years. Salvatore, convicted on two other charges, was sentenced to four years and fined and Agosta, convicted on three other charges, to three years.

CLERK TALKS AT TRIAL OF O'MALLEY

Testifies Ward Leader Paid For 2,409 Tax Receipts; 'Phantom' Voting Charged

Arthur G. Drumm, tax clerk in the County Treasurer's office, at the opening of the Second Ward election fraud case, today testified he had received $1,400 from P. J. O'Malley, Republican Ward chairman, and had later turned over to him 2,409 poll tax receipts and $195.50 change.

Charles F. Ebeck, assistant chief clerk of the Board of Registration, identified the voting and ballot check list of four districts in the Second Ward, and then Thomas Flannagan, clerk in the registration office, identified a typewritten list of persons for whom O'Malley had tax orders. He became confused and said all the names were on the delinquent list, but, under questioning by Assistant District Attorney Clunk, said he had worked on two lists and said the list was that for which O'Malley had tax orders.

LINKS PHANTOMS'

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, told the jury he would show that taxes were paid for many phantoms supposed to reside in vacant buildings and on lots.

County detectives guarded the courtroom and corridors as O'Malley; James Lardo, member of the Registration Board; Michael McMaskin, William Gallagher and Patrick D. Colangelo, went on trial before Visiting Judge C. M. Culver, charged with conspiracy to violate the election laws.

O'Malley is also charged with unlawful payment of the poll tax to insure the registration of voters.

COYNE SEES ATTORNEY

At the start of the trial State Senator James J. Coyne appeared at the courtroom door, which was locked. One of the guards offered to get Coyne into the courtroom if a seat could be found, but the Senator said he was seeking Attorney Coll and later met him in the hall. O'Malley is one of Coyne's henchmen.

The jury was locked up at the noon recess. Indications were that the trial would last a week.

Attorney Edward G. Coll, for the defense, informed the court that O'Malley's aunt had died suddenly and that the Strip leader wished to attend her funeral. The court gave permission and O'Malley need not appear in court until 1 p. m. tomorrow, although the trial will proceed.

CHERBOURG, France, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—Divers this afternoon succeeded in recovering from the bottom of Cherbourg harbor $200,000 in gold ingots which dropped into the water when a crane cable broke as they were being unloaded from the S.S. Berengaria.

FEARS AKRON RUINED IN CRASH

House Naval Chairman Says Loss May Be Irreparable, Praises Skipper's Coolness

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Fear that the airship Akron might have been irreparably damaged when she struck the ground at Lakehurst yesterday was expressed today by Representative McClintic (Dem.), of Oklahoma.

McClintic, who was chairman of the House naval subcommittee investigating the airworthiness of the giant vessel, said:

"I certainly won't make a flight in that airship."

SUBJECTED TO STRAIN

The Oklahoman and four other Representatives were, on the ground at Lakehurst waiting for the Akron to be prepared to take them aloft when the mishap occurred. McClintic said:

"The Akron certainly was subjected to unusual strains.

"I remember that the nose of the Shenandoah was pulled off in a similar accident a short while before she crashed. Whether the same thing has happened to the Akron, I don't know, but I certainly do not intend to take a ride in her."

McClintic said, however, that when the Akron's sister ship—the Macon—is completed, "I will recommend that the committee take a ride aboard her."

The Oklahoman expressed the opinion that his subcommittee now "cannot write a report saying whether the Akron is airworthy."

PRAISES SKIPPER

He praised Lieut. Com. Rosendahl, skipper of the Akron, for his actions in the excitement. The Oklahoman said:

"He kept his head and acted very wisely. I don't mean to criticize the other officers, but if there had been a half a dozen Rosendahls there, the accident might not have happened."

McClintic once more objected to the Navy's decision to transfer Rosendahl from command of the Akron to duty at sea. A resolution to exempt Rosendahl from his routine turn of duty at sea was rejected by the House Naval Committee recently.

McClintic contended the accident showed the inadvisability of locating airship bases on the coast line. He said:

"The air currents are too treacherous. There are too many squalls."

LAKEHURST, N. J., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Lieut. Com. C. E. Rosendahl, skipper of the dirigible Akron, and the ship's executive officer, Lieut. Com. Herbert V. Wiley, still hold to their original opinions that the damage suffered by the Akron yesterday can be repaired in six weeks.

They were reluctant to discuss the matter in view of Representative McClintic's statement. The Akron smashed her lower vertical fin as she was being prepared for flight.

AMERICAN FLIER DIES FIGHTING SQUADRON; SHOOTS ONE FOE

International News Service.

The first American death in the Sino-Japanese hostilities was revealed today when it was learned that Robert M. Short, Los Angeles airman, lost his life in a thrilling aerial duel with from three to six Japanese planes over Soochow yesterday.

On the heels of a joint protest by the American, British, Italian and Portuguese ministers over the Chinese shelling of the International Settlement in Shanghai, big guns roared again today just beyond the concession boundaries when Japanese artillery resumed bombardment of the Chapei district.

The Japanese government decided to dispatch two more divisions of infantry to Shanghai, virtually doubling her present forces in the war area, according to information received in Shanghai.

In Tokio, the Japanese government issued a vigorous reply to the recent note of the League of Nations Council, disclaiming any intention to attack the territorial integrity of China or to violate the League covenant or existing treaties.

U. S. Consul Starts Quiz; Yank Pilot Kills Nipponese Flier

SHANGHAI, Wednesday, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Japanese headquarters admitted early this morning that the terrific onslaught against Kiangwan had failed to dislodge the defenders and that it appeared the Chinese were capable of holding out for a long time.

By JAMES P. HOWE

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—Shanghai's Chinese defenders today fought off a succession of slashing Japanese attacks along the entire battlefront from Chapei to Kiangwan, meeting every drive with bullets and bayonets.

Both sides sustained probably the heaviest losses of the four days of furious fighting.

Reliable Chinese sources placed the Chinese casualties in yesterday's terrific fighting northwest of Kiangwan at 2,000 killed and wounded.

Meanwhile, it was learned here that the Japanese government at Tokio has decided to double the strength of its army at Shanghai. The Japanese are expecting a long campaign.

The only success the Japanese were able to eke out of the bloody encounter today was the destruction of the Chinese airdrome at Hungajo with a heavy aerial bombardment. The airdrome is five miles west of Shanghai. The Japanese dropped 25 heavy bombs upon it, destroying all the hangars and the planes within them. The hangars were burned.

AIR BASE DESTROYED

Japanese naval authorities said their airplanes also destroyed the Chinese air base at Soochow, on the Shanghai-Nanking Railway.

Wave after wave of Japanese

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—A dramatic two-minute battle over Soochow yesterday claimed the life of Robert M. Short, of Los Angeles, former second lieutenant in the Reserve Corps, United States Army, the only American known to be flying in the Chinese air forces, it was learned today.

Soochow is 60 miles due west of Shanghai.

Short's craft, a new, speedy Boeing pursuit plane, was shot down in flames in an air duel with three Japanese naval planes in which Lieut. Kodani, an observer in one of the Japanese machines, also was killed.

His identity unknown to the Japanese, Short suddenly swooped within the range of the three Japanese craft while they were surveying the Shanghai-Soochow railway zone.

CLAIM ATTACK

The Japanese claimed the lone airman attacked them. They responded to the fire and, as the three Nipponese planes wheeled and circled to maneuver the "enemy" into a vulnerable position, one of the Japanese gunners scored a direct hit.

Short's plane faltered and then dove, a crackling mass of flames.

The American pilot was believed to have been instantly killed. But a moment later one of the Japanese planes landed nearby and Lieut. Kodani was found fatally wounded in his blood-spattered cockpit. One of Short's shots had taken telling effect and Kodani died before he could be removed from his plane.

While the Japanese stated Short fought three Japanese planes, Lieut. Col. Shen, commander of the Chinese air force, declared that the American pilot met his death in a battle against six Japanese machines.

Describing Short merely as "pilot of a lone Chinese pursuit plane," because of the possibility of international complications if

COUNTY DROPS 128 EMPLOYES

The County Commissioners reduced the annual payroll $280,000 today by abolishing the Bureau of Tests, which employs 30 persons, and furloughing 98 employes in the Bureau of Bridges.

Minority Commissioner William D. Mansfield refused to vote on the motion furloughing the Bureau of Bridges employes, contending that many of them were elderly night watchmen. Chairman C. C. McGovern replied that one reason for such action was that the former administration had too many employes on the payroll.

LOW OF 15 DUE IN COLD SNAP

A fast-moving cold snap swept in from the Northwest today, dropping the mercury to 19, with prospect of a low mark tonight of 15. The winter's minimum is 13, recorded February 1.

Borne by a 24-mile wind and brief snow flurries, the frigid spell enveloped a shivering populace, unaccustomed to winter's rigors because of the long unseasonable mildness.

Rum Barons in Convention To Stabilize U. S. Trade

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 23.—(INS.)—Halifax, site of numerous conventions, is playing host this week to one of the strangest of all gatherings, a convention of the big time whisky, beer and alcohol barons of the United States, here to discuss amicably a stabilization of their industry with the idea of cutting down the overhead.

Preceded by no fanfiare of publicity and wearing no buttons or gaudy hats in the traditional convention style, the gentlemen who satisfy the thirst of millions of Americans have been coming into this city in two's and three's for the past week.

It is rumored that Vannie Higgins, kingpin of them all, is in town, but if so, he has kept himself well hidden. Three New York men, said to be Higgins' supporters, were discovered at a hotel by the International News Service correspondent, but when questioned, they explained:

"Oh, we're just here to see a few of the boys. Just a little matter of business. How is business? Never better, never better."

It has been fairly well established by Halifax authorities, who can, however, do nothing about it, that the racketeers, numbering more than 50, are here to consult with local liquor men in regard to transportation problems. Their idea is that by buying in bulk they can get a cheaper rate and thus have a surplus to be used in securing what they call "co-operation," but what police call "protection."

Drive of Japanese Recalls 1914, Gibbons Says

By FLOYD GIBBONS

(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—A miniature duplication of the famous 1914 race for the sea by the Germans and the Allies was going on this morning as Chinese and Japanese endeavored to turn each other's flanks at the north end of the line extending from Shanghai in the direction of the Yangtze River.

Gen. Uyeda has called out a regiment of cavalry and now is maneuvering in the vicinity of Woosung Creek seeking the opportunity to make a saber charge around the Chinese left and get behind the Chinese lines.

Horses are mired in the muddy creeks and the difficult terrain, but the cavalry will operate in close liaison with aerial observers, who will point out the breaks in the Chinese lines from above.

This is the first time I recall the co-operation of cavalry and aviation units, both of which are called the eyes of an army.

CHINESE MACHINE GUNNERS HURL BACK ATTACKING JAPS

BATTLE LINES WITHSTAND DRIVE

was thrown against the Chinese line during the day, only to be hurled back. The fighting was hottest along the front northwest of Kiangwan, where the Japanese spent every ounce of strength in an attempt to complete a movement begun yesterday which was intended to surround the garrison defending the blasted ruins of the village.

A decision on the mastery of Kiangwan appeared to be far off. he definitely identified him as an American. Shen described the thrilling air battle and the events however, and the strength of the Japanese attack began to subside after noon with nothing gained or lost by the forenoon's efforts.

As the fighting tapered off Japanese Red Cross workers sought to bring out the wounded. The same probably was happening behind the Chinese lines.

It was also a bloody day on the front between Chapei and Kiangwan. A barrage of artillery fire from the Japanese lines prepared the way for the lunges of the infantry and airplanes showered high explosives on the embattled Chinese. Smoke screens were used to cover the Japanese infantry thrusts and to shield the soldiers from the vigilant eyes of the Chinese gunners.

JAPANESE STOPPED

The slashing machine gun fire from the well-concealed Chinese "nests," which dotted the entire area, succeeded in stopping the Japanese again as they have succeeded in similar attacks during the last four days. Much of the fighting was hand-to-hand. The Japanese were cut down by the Chinese bayonets as they attempted to rush the defenders' trenches.

A survey of the area northwest of Kiangwan revealed many bodies of Japanese dead which had not yet been picked up. Behind the Japanese lines on the northern sector was a scene of utter desolation. Every building had been burned to the ground and smoking embers, over which little knots of Japanese soldiers attempted to cook food, dotted the countryside.

The whole area was blasted terribly by airplane bombs and artillery shells. Numerous grave mounds had been blown open and large numbers of Chinese and Japanese dead lay here and there.

A bomb exploded at the entrance to the postoffice at Szechuen road and Soochow creek in the International Settlement this afternoon, injuring a foreign policeman and blowing in fronts of buildings across the street. The blast was similar to that which wrecked the offices of the Japanese Mitsui Bussan Kaisha last week. It was a time bomb.

It was learned this afternoon on apparently reliable authority that Chinese anti-aircraft gunners in the vicinity of Chenju northwest of the International Settlement, brought down two Japanese airplanes Monday. The Chinese claimed three Japanese aviators were killed in the second of the two planes and the planes destroyed.

Consuls of 4 Nations Protest Shelling

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—The United States, British, Italian and Portuguese ministers tonight filed a joint protest with the Chinese government against the shelling of the International Settlement last night.

The Italian consul also called upon Mayor Wu Te-Chen of the native Chinese city of Shanghai to lodge a strong protest against the bombardment during the course of which a Chinese shell struck the Italian gunboat Libya.

Americans Advised To Flee Village

NANKING, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—United States naval officers at Chinkiang, between Nanking and Shanghai, today advised all Americans to evacuate that Yangtse port immediately.

Chinese troops, bound for the Shanghai battle front, are crossing the river at Chinkiang, and the naval officers fear Japanese warships will attack Chinkiang.

SLAUGHTER LAID TO JAPANESE

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Stories of executions of Chinese by Japanese soldiers in the fighting around Shanghai were vouched for today by Charles Doyle, who has been a flying instructor for the Chinese army, on his return from the Far East.

The account of Doyle, who lives at Vancouver, was one of several descriptions of the warfare given by passengers who arrived here yesterday on the Empress of Asia.

The feeling was expressed that sentiment was running high against the Japanese among occupants of the International Settlement at Shanghai, Doyle said.

"Wherever there is any sniping the Japanese arrest everyone in the building from which the shots were fired, and execute them instantly.

Hong Kong Marks Chinese 'Victories'

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Dispatches from Hongkong said a tremendous celebration took place there today on receipt of reports from Shanghai that the Chinese had won "sweeping military victories."

Loads of firecrackers were shot off at noon. The sudden fusillade scared the foreign residents of the city who feared it was an outbreak of fighting.

TSITSIHAR, Manchuria, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Mah Chan-Shan, the Chinese general who defended Tsitsihar against the Japanese early in the Manchurian campaign, came back today from Mukden where he participated in the formation of the new independent Manchurian state, and was formally inaugurated as governor of Heilungkiang province.

RUSSIA HONORS RED ARMY

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Red flags floated from nearly every building in Soviet Russia today as the country commemorated the fourteenth anniversary of the organization of the red army.

Columns of newspaper space were devoted to reiterating the country's peaceful intentions, to which was added a warning that the Soviets must be prepared for "coming imperialistic attacks."

The day was not a holiday and no formal ceremonies were held in the Red Square in Moscow such as occur on May Day and November 7, but the people were reminded of the day's significance not only by the flags and bunting, but by the headlines, pictures of Stalin and caustic editorial comment on the progress of the disarmament conference in the newspapers.

The comment on the disarmament conference was coupled with reference to the conference being held simultaneously with "undeclared" war in China.

Senate Committee Indorses Cardozo

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—The nomination of Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo, of New York, to the United States Supreme court, was favorably reported by the Senate Judiciary Committee today.

Senate confirmation of the nomination is now practically assured.

STIMSON TO SET FORTH POLICY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—Secretary of State Stimson today was considering a new statement of policy with regard to the Sino-Japanese crisis in Manchuria and the Shanghai area, for publication within the next 24 or 48 hours.

This statement probably will outline the American government's policy not only toward the newly-created Manchurian government, but toward the Japanese invasion of the Shanghai area. It is expected to go even further than Stimson's "statement of policy with regard to Manchuria," which was issued January 7, and which declared the United States would recognize no arrangement in Manchuria which infringed upon the policy of the "open door."

It was said that Stimson, following numerous conferences with his advisers, has decided to issue a statement on the question whether the "open door" policy is applicable to China in the present chaotic conditions prevailing there. The Japanese government has repeatedly declared it was not applicable, and based its entire military activity in Manchuria and in the Shanghai area upon this claim that there is at present no responsible government in China.

'T.R.' in Shanghai, To View Warfare

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, with Mrs. Roosevelt and their daughter, Grace, arrived here today by steamer on his way to Manila, where he will become Governor General of the Philippines. Informed he would be taken tomorrow to a vantage point to view the Chapei battle front from a distance the colonel enthused:

"Let's go tonight and see the fireworks."

JAPAN FIGHTS LEAGUE BID TO U. S.

American Participation in Meeting on Far Eastern Controversy Opposed

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

GENEVA, Feb. 23.—Japan will raise vigorous objection to the participation of the United States in the extraordinary session of the League of Nations assembly March 3 to consider the Sino-Japanese conflict.

This was learned by International News Service today while experts of the League secretariat continued to seek some method by which an invitation could be extended to the United States.

The Japanese objections will be based strictly on the ground that the United States is not a member of the League, the same basis upon which Tokio previously protested American participation in the council discussions of the Manchurian situation.

Actually, the Japanese government is greatly concerned over the possibility that the United States will join hands with the League assembly in bringing economic pressure to bear to force cessation of hostilities at Shanghai.

TOKIO, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—The Japanese government, in a vigorous reply to the League of Nation Council's recent note, disclaims any intention to attack the territorial integrity of China or to violate the League covenant or existing treaties.

The reply was addressed by Kenkichi Yoshisawa, foreign minister, to Joseph Paul-Boncour, of France, presiding over the League Council.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, is leaving for Geneva this afternoon.

This unexpected announcement was made at the foreign office at noon today but officials would not discuss the purpose of his trip.

It was generally understood, however, that Sir John had been summoned to join discussions on the Sino-Japanese conflict. He returned only last week from the disarmament conference.

Britain Rushes New Battalion to China

BOMBAY, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—The second battalion of the East Lancashire Regiment received orders today to depart for Shanghai tomorrow.

The regiment originally was scheduled to suppress uprisings at Khartum, in Egypt, but the sudden turn of events in Shanghai caused the change in plans.

Today

trouble, to be weak is to invite it.

E. E. BRANDO writes from San Diego, Cal., quoting Santayana:

"Only the dead have seen the end of war."

Mr. Brando asks:

"Does not history proclaim and prove it?"

HISTORY does NOT. If Santayana had lived one hundred thousand years ago he might have said:

"Only the dead have seen the end of cannibalism."

Had he lived in 1860, he might have said:

"Only the dead have seen the end of slavery."

HISTORY WOULD have seemed to "proclaim and prove" both those last statements as much as Santayana's phrase about war.

The human race will outlive war as it has outlived cannibalism. Hundreds of millions of years are ahead of us on this planet.

We are only 12,000 years from the late Stone Age, not long enough to suppress our tiger, wolf and monkey ancestors entirely.

SAYS U. S. LOANS ARM WORLD

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—Indiscriminate money lending without "strings attached" by America has practically financed the standing armies of the world, Senator Millard Tydings (Dem.), of Maryland, declared last night in an address before the Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Since the close of the World War, Tydings asserted, debts to America have increased from $12,000,000,000 to $26,000,000,000. Most of the loans, he asserted, have gone for armaments.

He listed some of these loans as follows:

In 1927 Japan floated a loan of $300,000,000 in the United States, of which two-thirds was spent for maintenance of the army and navy.

In 1927 Argentina borrowed $99,000,000 and spent $44,000,000 for arms.

Three Japanese Die To Aid Troop Charge

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Three privates in the Japanese army sacrificed their lives yesterday to blast a way through barbed wire entanglements blocking the advance near Miaohung Chen.

The Japanese Press Union Service told today how three men from an engineering battalion carried a load of high explosive out into no man's land and deliberately jumped into the wire. There was a shattering explosion which destroyed the wire and a Japanese column advanced over the bodies of the three volunteers.

ARMS PARLEY AIRS PLANS

GENEVA, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—A plenary session of the general disarmament conference was held here today, devoted entirely to hearing the proposals of Latin-American countries, including Guatemala, Venezuela, Bolivia and Colombia.

The session was extremely brief. It was decided to adjourn for two weeks beginning March 19.

The secretariat made public a number of disarmament proposals handed in by the various delegations during the course of the conference thus far, summarizing each in compact form.

The American proposals suggest prolongation of the Washington and London treaties as soon as France and Italy adhere to the latter; total abolition of submarines; effective measures to protect civilians from aerial bombing, total abolition of gas and bacteriological warfare and special restrictions on tanks and heavy mobile guns.

REGISTRATION FRAUD CHARGED

The County Bureau of Elections today sent six men to McKees Rocks to investigate reports of residents that fraudulent registrations were being made by the register-assessors of the district. A checkup of registration lists will be made, it was said.

Register-assessors of boroughs and townships are on duty today and will sit again tomorrow at the polling places to give those not already enrolled opportunity to register for the April primaries. The hours are from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m.

AMERICAN FLIER KILLED IN BATTLE

Ex-U. S. Reserve Officer Dies Fighting Japanese; Slays One During Duel

BRISK FIGHTING

"Brisk fighting followed, the planes flying back and forth between Kiangwan and Chenju.

"One Japanese plane was shot down behind the Chinese lines before the aerial combat roamed further afield and the Chinese and Japanese aviators lost trace of each other.

"Then six Japanese planes appeared over Soochow. A lone Chinese pursuit plane went into the sky and launched an attack upon them. Before his plane was brought down, the pilot of the lone Chinese plane succeeded in hitting two Japanese planes, which did not fall."

Short's death-defying dash into battle yesterday apparently was in the nature of vindication, since he previously was an instructor employed by the Nanking aviation force and was dismissed when he cracked up a new bombing plane.

Lieut. Col. Shen declared Short's battle was the fourth aerial duel between Japanese and Chinese planes "in which we downed three Japanese planes and lost but one Chinese." Japanese military officials insist, however, that the planes they lost in the past were shot down by anti-aircraft guns.

Japanese military headquarters issued an official communique today briefly describing the air duel, but they were apparently unaware that the victim of their airmen's guns was an American.

The communique credited the Chinese with killing Lieut. Kodani, and made mention of the fact that the "enemy" plane shot down was one of the latest and most efficient American models.

PEACEFUL MISSION

While the Japanese insisted Short, whom they identified solely as "pilot of the enemy plane," opened fire on the three Nipponese craft, officials of L. E. Gale & Co., a Shanghai firm by which Short was employed, declared the American flier's mission was a peaceful one.

They said he had been loaned to the Chinese central government aviation corps solely for the purpose of flying to Nanking a plane purchased by the government.

From available information, it appeared that the Japanese fliers entertained no doubts concerning the identity of their opponent in the thrilling aerial battle, believing he was a Chinese. They were surprised, however, at the skill with which he manipulated his fleet plane as well as his audacity in flinging himself against unbeatable numbers.

The air battle was the first authenticated mid-air duel that had taken place since the outbreak of hostilities in the Shanghai area.

Chinese military officials have claimed on more than one occasion to have shot down Japanese aircraft, but in each instance the victors were believed to have been anti-aircraft gunners instead of Chinese airmen.

CONSUL INVESTIGATES

Edwin S. Cunningham, American consul general, immediately launched an investigation to determine why Short, ostensibly bound for Nanking to deliver his plane to the Chinese government, suddenly decided upon certain suicide by seeking combat with the Japanese airmen.

Cunningham recalled that dozens of American and Canadian airmen have flocked into Shanhai and Nanking during the last few months seeking jobs with the Chinese air force. Attracted here by newspaper advertisements appearing in the United States offering large compensation for experienced pilots who were willing to fight the Japanese, the aviators were dissuaded from their purpose by Cunningham.

Some of them obtained local jobs, others were given employment on board boats returning to the United States, while still others were stranded penniless, forced to turn to beachcombing to keep body and soul together.

HUGHES, BIOGRAPHER, RETELLS WASHINGTON HISTORY HERE

DENIES SLAYING OF FRENCHMAN UNDER TRUCE

Braddock Outgeneraled, Not Ambushed, He Declares; Admires First President

Rupert Hughes, novelist and biographer of George Washington, today trod ground hallowed by Washington and reiterated his charge that Gen. Braddock was not ambushed by the French and Indians, but was out-maneuvered by the smaller army defending Fort Duquesne.

Hughes, in Pittsburgh to speak at the Y. M. & W. H. A. in Bellefield avenue tonight, likewise exploded the myth that Washington shot Jumonville, French scout, in Fayette County, while he was bearing a flag of truce. He will be interviewed during the Sun-Telegraph news broadcast from station WCAE at 6:30 tonight.

Of the Jumonville incident he said:

"Jumonville was a member of a scouting party and carried two papers, one an order directing that he scout the English and American forces, and another authorizing him to negotiate treaties. When Washington's party accosted Jumonville and his party, acting in the role of scouts and not peacemakers, they opened fire—a legitimate action."

Concerning Braddock's defeat, Hughes said:

"Braddock set out to attack Fort Duquesne and opened fire on the smaller army dispatched by the French. Deploying their forces the French trapped Braddock and in the cross fire that followed, the British leader fell. Washington, then without commission, was attached to Braddock's army as a bearer of messages."

"It's a crazy idea that I attacked Washington. I have exploded some myths about him, but the more I study Washington the more I admire him. He was a great man and a courageous soldier."

AUTO INJURIES KILL GADSKI

BERLIN, Feb. 23. — (AP.)—Madame Johanna Gadski, noted opera singer, who was injured in an automobile accident here yesterday, died today.

The automobile in which Madame Gadski was riding when she was injured, was driven by Mrs. F. Bang, of New York. Others in the car were her husband, Capt. Hans Tauscher, and her daughter, Mrs. C. Busch. They also were injured, less seriously.

Mme. Gadski was to have headed a German opera tour of the United States next fall.

She was 59, and was especially noted for her work in Wagnerian operas. She was considered one of the most celebrated "Bruenhildes" of the early twentieth century. Her husband, Capt. Tauscher, represented the Krupp interests in the United States before the World War.

CULT 'TRIANGLE' SEEN IN MURDER

LANSDALE, Pa., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Contending that Samuel Forte was hanged from a rafter in the factory where he was employed by the husband and son of a woman member of his religious cult with whom he carried on a love affair, Police Chief Samuel Woffindin said he expected to arrest the slayers today.

The police chief said the belt with which Forte's hands were bound belonged to the woman's husband and that some strips of cloth which bound his feet were taken from the tailoring shop where the son is employed.

The evidence linking the men to the hanging, Woffindin said, came from Mrs. Forte, mother of 10 children. She was quoted:

"He was always going to the home of another member of the cult. Many times his friend was not at home and his wife was there alone. He always told me he was going there to pray, but that was not the only reason."

TREASURY AIDS CLOSED BANKS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—In order that depositors of closed national banks may obtain the maximum of return, Comptroller of the Currency Pole has arranged for a centralized marketing of bank securities in New York.

Receivers of closed banks may arrange with the New York representative of the comptroller to dispose of bank's securities. The work will be conducted in cooperation with the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

Pole explained this will avoid the general dumping of securities by receivers and permit a maximum return on holdings of the closed banks.

'ROXY' TO TELL TECH ABOUT THEATER

Roxy of the Radio, as S. L. Rothafel is known, hurried to Pittsburgh today, taxicabed to the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, took a quick shower bath, stole a few hours' sleep and prepared to tell Carnegie Tech students what's wrong and what's right with the theater.

The happy little man, who will be boss of Rockefeller's Radio City in New York, didn't know at noon today what he'd talk about. He explained:

"I ad lib. They'll ask me questions and I'll answer. The theater? Well, I think things are picking up, but you can't tell. The good shows always succeed, no matter what conditions are."

Roxy was full of curiosity as to the success of his good friend Florenz Ziegfeld's "Hot-Cha," which opened last night. Of him he said:

"I have a great admiration for 'Ziggy.' Certainly he is the dean of musical producers. And he has always been clean."

Roxy admitted he liked to come to Pittsburgh, especially since his last visit with Madame Schumann-Heink and "Roxy's Gang." Since then he's been all over Europe, including Russia. However, he sets himself up as probably the only American visitor to Russia since the five-year plan who won't talk about it.

The radio showman, who was accompanied here by S. J. Kaufman, producer and author, speaks at 6:15 p. m., today over Sun-Telegraph radio station, WCAE.

TARDIEU STANDS PAT ON DEBTS

PARIS, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—There will be no change in the French disarmament and reparations policy under the government headed by Andre Tardieu, the new premier told the Chamber of Deputies today in his first ministerial declaration.

His government, he said, will participate in negotiations with a view to adjusting the reparations schedule, but it will not permit repudiation of existing agreements. In the field of disarmament the new ministry agrees with the last that security is a prerequisite to reduction of arms.

It is a source of satisfaction, said M. Tardieu, that France and Great Britain have come to an agreement to hold an international conference at Lausanne to discuss the debts. When these two countries agree, he said, they form the strongest guarantee for one another.

As soon as the Premier had finished, debate began and a vote was expected this evening. M. Tardieu's supporters believed he would have a substantial majority on a declaration of confidence. Thereafter the Premier will go back to Geneva for the arms conference.

BROKER KILLS HIMSELF IN AUTOMOBILE

Body Found Near East End Home of Kin, Bullet in Temple; Note Left Behind

Fred Seebick, a real estate broker, of 1167 Wightman street, ended his life early today with a bullet, fired as he sat in his automobile parked in front of the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. Frank Kenworthy, 203 Roup street, according to a coroner's report. Seebick was 47 yesterday—Washington's birthday.

In his wallet was found a memorandum:

"Insurance policy in steel drawer of desk. Key No. 5 on ring. Policy paid until February 26, 1932."

Dr. Kenworthy pronounced Seebick dead. He told deputy coroners he knew no reason for the act. Seebick had offices in the Magee Building, Fourth avenue.

Mrs. Helena Neal Seebick identified the body at the morgue and said:

"Mr. Seebick never talked much about his business, but I knew he was worried by the business depression."

She last saw him yesterday morning.

JUDGE STUDIES RUTH'S APPEAL

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Unless a new trial is granted, Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, convicted murderess, probably will start the 68-mile trip to the Arizona State Prison at Florence today.

Judge Howard Speakman was to pass on an application for a new trial for the 26-year-old woman. If he denies it, he must sentence her to hang. The jury which found Mrs. Judd guilty February 8 of the murder of Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi prescribed the death penalty.

Mrs. Judd was tried only for the murder of Mrs. Le Roi, although she also admitted slaying Miss Hedvig Samuelson and placing the bodies of the two women in trunks and sending them to Los Angeles last October. Insanity was Mrs. Judd's defense. The state alleged the motive was jealousy.

The charge of murdering Miss Samuelson has been held in abeyance pending the outcome of the Le Roi case.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mable E. Cook, Boston society woman, whose daughter, Miss Elizabeth Barrett Cook, died mysteriously on the steamship Chinese Prince in the Mediterranean, arrived today from Naples on the Steamship Conte Biancamano, declaring to passengers her belief the 20-year-old girl died accidentally of an overdose of sleeping powder, but failing to clear the mystery enshrouding the case.

Mrs. Cook and her other daughter, Louise, 17, as well as Elizabeth's fiance, St. George Tucker Arnold, who went down the bay to meet them, locked themselves in a stateroom as the vessel came up New York harbor, refusing to see reporters. Mrs. Cook was reported near collapse.

High pressure is the dominating influence over most of the country, with centers over the upper lakes and plateau section. There is a center of low pressure in the Far Northeast, one in the Southeast, and one over Manitoba. The skies are mostly clear over the lake region, the Ohio Valley states and eastward to the coast, while over the West considerable cloudiness prevails. Precipitation was limited to light showers along the Gulf coast, and light snowfall over the Northeast. It is colder than yesterday over the eastern half of the country, and somewhat warmer over the plains states. The weather is now moderately cold over most of the country.

Arabs Select Mecca For League Parley

JERUSALEM, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—The chief holy city of the Moslems—Mecca—has been chosen for a Pan-Arabian Congress, at which an attempt will be made to form an Arab League of Nations.

The purpose of the gathering was stated to be to "combat imperialism and to free Arabian states from mandatory control."

RECORD FLIERS FORCED DOWN

BOSTON, Feb. 23. — (INS.) — Nat C. Brown and Edward Muldowney, ex-Army fliers, en route from Old Orchard Beach, Me., to Buenos Aires, came down at East Boston Airport shortly before 11 a. m. today, their hopes of setting up a new long distance flight record going aglimmering. They had been in the air a little more than two hours.

A section of their landing gear was broken in landing. The two wartime Army flying "buddies" were considerably shaken up, but were unhurt.

The "trick" landing gear they had planned to release en route to gain speed was shattered. The motor of the plane was jolted and the wings shaken by the impact. However, the plane, the "Lone Star," stayed erect and was not broken.

Shortly after their takeoff this morning at Orchard Beach, they had been forced to dump 50 gallons of gasoline to avoid hitting a pier.

GIRL BANDIT'S GUN A TOY

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—A 17-year-old high school girl armed with a water gun kept police radio squads dashing about the North Side last night answering calls from persons she had held up.

Miss Vera Wood, the water gun bandit, ended her crime career at the city prison with a broken arm. A taxicab driver, one of her victims, sensed the gun she poked in his face was not dangerous. The driver, who had given up a small sum, decided to recover it. He pursued her, struck her, breaking her arm, and got his money back.

Miss Wood was arrested at the City Hospital where she went to receive treatment.

Accused of holding up a bus, two persons in an apartment, several taxicab drivers and a motorist, she explained:

"I don't remember what happened. I went out with the boy friend and he had some liquor. I don't know what happened to him. I guess he gave me the air when I got boisterous."

GARNER'S BOOM CAUSES WORRY TO ROOSEVELT

Speaker Perils Governor in Sections He Has Hoped to Show, Greatest Strength

By GEORGE R. HOMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Breaking out of the favorite son class, the presidential boom for Speaker John N. Garner moved boldly into the national field today. It is assuming proportions that constitute real worry to other Democratic aspirants.

The Garner movement is particularly menacing to the candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, for the Texan is drawing support from those sections which the Roosevelt managers from the start have claimed as peculiarly their own—the South and West.

The state-wide rally in San Antonio yesterday clinched the 46 delegates from Texas for Garner, and with that as a nucleus his enthusiastic supporters now plan to reach out into other states in quest of Garner delegates. Of necessity they must reach into Roosevelt territory.

INVADE GEORGIA

An example of this has speedily appeared in Georgia. Gov. Roosevelt's "adopted state," where Judge G. H. Howard entered the primary as a proxy for the Texan. Should he win, he announced he would turn the delegates over to Garner in the convention.

Similar action is contemplated in other southern and western states. Louisiana already is accounted Garner territory, as Senator Huey Long has announced he favors Garner. Movements are either under way or will be shortly in Kansas, New Mexico, Arizona and elsewhere.

The Roosevelt managers are exhibiting signs of acute concern. They had counted on almost solid support for the New York Governor from the southern and western states once the complimentary votes for favorite sons are out of the way. Almost solid support from these sections has been considered necessary in order to offset the lack of Roosevelt strength in the large delegations of the North and East.

GARNER ALOOF

The Garner movement will have to swing along as best it can without any material assistance from the Speaker himself. He does not plan to lift a finger in his own behalf nor to stop the efforts of his friends. He plans simply to ignore the whole thing and stick to his not too easy task of maintaining a Democratic legislative majority in the House with a precarious margin of six votes.

There is, however, a vast undercover movement in Garner's behalf among the Democratic members of the House who are genuinely fond of the homespun Texan. His Texas colleagues, of course, are openly for him, and so are a considerable number of others who have been on the fence as between Roosevelt, Smith, Ritchie, Baker and other possibilities.

But some of the members who have been pushed by home state sentiment into publicly declaring for this or that candidate are secretely doing all they can to promote the Garner movement. There are 220 Democrats in the House, most of whom are politically influential in their districts. It is probably safe to say that "Jack" Garner hasn't an enemy among them.

Such an influential force cannot be ignored in the four months that yet remain before the Democrats at Chicago get down to the business of naming a candidate.

FATHER SAVES THREE IN FIRE

George Thompson, 36, was carried from his burning home, 5 Porter street, North Side, early today, and a family of small children were led to safety by their father when the flames threatened an adjacent dwelling.

After his rescue by Battalion Chief Frank Jones Thompson was removed to St. John's Hospital where he was reported overcome by smoke. Later a charge was lodged against him, pending an investigation of the fire.

James Hoffman, 35, of 7 Porter street, awakened his wife, Mary, 32, and their children, Frank 3, Charles 3, and Mary Cecilia 1, and led them safely out of the smoke-filled home.

Neighbors sounded the alarm when they saw flames and smoke issuing from the house. Chief Jones battered in the door with an ax and fought his way through the smoke to Thompson's bedroom, where the latter was sleeping.

The cause of the fire has not been determined. Damage was estimated at $1,000 by Chief Jones.

BIG NAVY BILL RECOMMENDED TO SENATE

Committee Asks Building To Treaty Strength; Hale, Reed Warn of War Peril

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A bill authorizing the building up of the American Navy to full treaty strength was unanimously approved by the Senate Naval Affairs Committee today.

Sponsored by Senator Hale (Rep.) of Maine the bill is designed to eliminate the disparity now existing between the American Navy and the British and Japanese fleets. It provides for a regular construction program at a cost of about $70,000,000 a year. Hale said:

"This bill is a plain authorization for the government to build our Navy up to treaty strength." Hale said. "It will enable the budget to go ahead and make recommendations for the treaty program."

Twelve Senators attended the committee meeting and all voted in favor of the bill.

NO TIME LIMIT

No time limit is set on the treaty building program. The bill provides the building up shall be accomplished by new construction, replacement of over age vessels and alterations in and conversion of existing vessels.

It also provides for maintenance of the Navy at treaty strength through replacement.

Senators Hale and David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, in radio speeches last night, declared America can be secure from foreign aggression only if the Army and Navy are kept at a reasonable level consistent with national safety.

Pointing to the league's breakdown, with China and Japan in death grips, Reed declared:

DEFENDS CAMPS

Reed protested against proposals to abolish the citizens' military training camps and to weaken the National Guard and Reserve Corps, adding:

"If it were not for this wholesome system of civilian training, the cost of which is relatively small as compared with our total military expenditures, it would be necessary to maintain a much larger army as a precaution against attack."

By not building up to treaty limitations, the United States already has lost the security afforded by the Washington and London treaties since Great Britain and Japan have built while America has let its Navy deteriorate, he said, adding:

"As a result, we find ourselves with a Navy at the present time with more than half our ships obsolete. Our Navy is not nearly the equal of the British navy, and instead of being kept up to a ratio of 5 to 3½ with Japan, as provided by treaties, is, as far as immediate availability of ships is concerned, on a footing of practical equality with the latter country."

'GANDHI' TRAILS IN MAYOR RACE

SEATTLE, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Political observers say Vic Meyers, orchestra leader and campaigner extraordinary, will probably be rejected by the voters in today's mayoralty primary, but he closed his drive with "no skeletons" in his closet and may try again.

The colorful "personality candidate" was given no better than a chance for fifth or sixth place in most forecasts. With two men to be nominated, John F. Dore, criminal attorney, and either Mayor Robert H. Harlin or his predecessor, Frank Edwards, who was recalled last summer, were considered most favored.

Meyers' "show" included the employing of Laura La Plante, movie star, as his manager and appearing as "Mahatma Gandhi" at a luncheon club. He advocated hostesses for street cars, cracked ice on "owl" cars and a band to greet all visitors.

Finishing Touch

"THE PERFECT HOUSE!" agreed her friends, and Martha Hill accepted their praise proudly. She knew it was deserved. Each detail of her new home showed unerring taste—painstaking selection.

She was seated with her guests in the living room when the telephone beside her rang. A call for the maid—this was embarrassing! Martha noted the strained pause while the call was being answered.

It was Mrs. Burns who ever so tactfully restored Martha's poise. "My dear," she whispered, "that used to happen to me every time I entertained. Now I have a kitchen telephone and another upstairs for privacy's sake. They're such a comfort!"

COUNTY TO PUSH AUDIT, SAYS MANSFIELD

Believes Financial Quiz Justified Though No New Irregularities Reported

Disclaiming knowledge that Controller R. G. Woodside intends questioning the expense of the county audit, Commissioner W. D. Mansfield today said he believed the Commissioners would appropriate sufficient funds to finish it.

Any reasonable expense would be justified, he said, as the county has spent $100,000,000 since 1927 without an audit. Nearly $20,000 of the $25,000 already appropriated has been spent. Indications are Woodside will ask to be consulted as to future expenditures.

AUDIT HELD JUSTIFIED

Asked if irregularities had been uncovered aside from discrepancies charged to clerks and deputies of the county delinquent tax office, Mansfield said:

"I do not know of any. However, I do know that sufficient things have been found to warrant the making of the audit and having it finished. There have been inklings that something may be uncovered, but the auditors have not advised us about finding anything criminal beyond what is already known in the collection of delinquent taxes."

Observers believe the Commissioners will continue the audit because of the moral effect it will have. It is regarded as likely the audit will be ordered completed as good business policy.

SCAN MECHLING BOOKS

The Main & Co. auditors doing the work are checking up the highways accounts. This also takes them into the Department of Supplies. No reports have been made to the Commissioners regarding irregularities.

Auditors also are inspecting accounts of the late L. R. Mechling, Wilkinsburg, who had the 1929 delinquent tax list to collect in that borough. The tax books were recovered yesterday from his private office safe in Wilkinsburg.

Washington Day Babies Here Not Namesakes

Fourteen potential George Washingtons were born yesterday in Pittsburgh hospitals, but none, so far as could be ascertained, is to be named after the first President born 200 years ago.

The closest aspirant to the honor was young George Naylor, born at 8:30 a. m. in St. Francis Hospital, but records disclose no middle name of "Washington." There is still a chance, according to hospital attaches, who said many of the newborn have not been named.

JOB RACKETEER SUSPECT HELD

Foltz, 26, of Washington, registered in a downtown hotel under an assumed name and met a prospect to whom he promised a job as a chauffeur, according to City Detectives William Sullivan and Charles Waizenhofer, who arrested him in the hotel last night.

After serving a prison term for the embezzlement of $1,600 from the Congressional Club in Washington, where he was employed as a clerk, Foltz began preying on unemployed chauffeurs, detectives said.

Representing himself as an official of a sound-producing concern, Foltz, according to detectives, "hired" a man to drive to another town and upon reaching his destination would vanish with his employe's baggage.

WILKINSBURG ASKS TAX CUT

Taxpayers of Wilkinsburg demanding a reduction in the 1932 millage will be given a hearing next Monday night when the annual budget is fixed, members of the Wilkinsburg Council informed a delegation last night.

Nearly 1,500 citizens have signed petitions demanding a three-mill cut from the present borough tax of 12½ mills, and two mills from the school tax of eight mills.

A merger of many borough activities is planned as an economy move, with prospect that some employes will be dropped. A general 10 per cent salary cut was put into effect six months ago.

Divergent reports were submitted as to the right of the borough to eliminate 1,000-candle power street lights. A further study was requested.

German Peril Hinted In French War Fund

PARIS, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Secret military activity in Germany was hinted today by Deputy Maurice Bouilloux-Lafont when he reported a 1932 budget for the war ministry, fixing expenditures for nine months between April and December inclusive, at 3,929,000,000 francs ($157,160,000).

The deputy's document said an analysis of Germany's armaments showed that the real military strength of the Reich was more effectively organized than before the war, and that men and material were "notably superior to that fixed by the Versailles treaty."

DUBLIN, Feb. 23. — (AP.) — President William T. Cosgrave and his cabinet conceded today their defeat in the Irish election held last Tuesday.

With the returns from the election complete except for seven districts in which the voting was postponed, Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail and its Labor allies had won 77 seats in the new Dail Eirann, as compared with 68 for the Government party and its independent supporters.

President Cosgrave said he and his cabinet had definitely determined to go into the opposition. He said reports he was seeking alliance with any group to keep de Valera's Fianna Fail out of power were unfounded.

THE STORY OF JOHN N. GARNER

By George Rothwell Brown

CHAPTER III.

Nearly every important event in the life of John N. Garner has occurred in the month of November. The eleventh month of the year—in which elections, including Presidential elections, are held—has been his lucky season.

He was born in November, and it was on November 22, 1895, at the age of 26, that he and Miss Ettie Rheiner were married at Sabinal. They spent the honeymoon in a boarding house in Uvalde while the first little home was being built for them. This was a small, plain, five-room cottage. It is to be doubted whether the Garners have ever been any happier, in the mansion house they now own in Uvalde, than they were in this tiny home where they made their start in life together.

On September 24, 1896, their first and only child, a son, was born. He was named Tully, after Mr. Garner's law partner. Garner's first race as Judge had been won by virtue of an appointment to fill an unexpired term. He was re-elected for a second term, but suffered his first and only defeat in his entire career when he again ran for the same office. His fondness for practical jokes were probably responsible for this defeat.

There were a great many Mexicans in Uvalde County, and "Tio Juan," as he was known to them, had always been very popular and still is to this day. Frequently, in his capacity of judge, he would be called upon to authorize the expenditure of county funds needed to render medical assistance to some destitute Mexican.

Medicine for Mexican

According to the story that has become a Rio Grande tradition, one day, during the campaign, he concluded that too much money was being spent in that manner. Accordingly, with a friend, he purchased a box of pills and an ill peon applying for aid, three of the pellets were given to him, with large saving to the county.

But upon inquiring into the sick Mexican's condition the next day, the young Judge was shocked by the information that the man had died. Right then he vowed never to try to be a doctor again.

Judge Garner was then called upon to authorize the burial of the corpse, which he did with a heavy heart. Aside from his own remorse, he agreed with his political friends when they told him the incident would cost him the election, the story being circulated all over the county that in his zeal for economy he had killed a Mexican.

As a matter of fact, John Garner wasn't the only practical joker in Uvalde County by a long shot. There were others, and they enjoyed themselves at his expense after the quaint old custom on any frontier. The Mexican hadn't died at all, but had made a remarkable recovery under the stimulating influence of the Garner brand of economical cure-all, but the truth didn't get out in time, and young John N. Garner in his second attempt to win a public office tasted the bitter ashes of defeat.

Is Not Discouraged

Many another ambitious man, suffering such a set-back, has ended his career before he had really started it, but one licking was no more than a temporary disappointment to John N. Garner. He liked public life and was determined to keep on. He looked about for other fields to conquer. One was at hand.

About this time an important event occurred. William Henry Crain had represented the old Seventh Congressional district of Texas during the Fortieth Congress. In the Nineties this district included Uvalde County. It was said of Crain, who had been educated by the Jesuits, that he spoke the purest English of any man in the House of Representatives. He died in Washington in 1896, and young Judge Garner was elected a delegate to the convention at Corpus Christi that was called to nominate his successor.

It is characteristic of the fundamental instinct of the budding statesman of Uvalde County that he went down to the convention with his own vote and ten proxies in his pocket.

There was a tie, and it took three days for the convention to make a nomination. Garner found that he had the deciding vote. Judge James B. Wells, of Brownsville, was the strongest political factor in the district. He favored the nomination of Rudolph Kleberg, of Corpus. After some 70 fruitless ballots had been cast, young Garner went to Judge Wells and said that he would go for Kleberg, but that in return he wanted to be chairman of the district Congressional campaign committee. This was arranged, and right then and there John N. Garner made up his mind that what he really wanted to do was to go to Congress himself.

JUDGE JOHN N. GARNER'S HOME AT UVALD — TREE-SURROUNDED BRICK HOUSE

A Large District

Surveying the district in which Uvalde County was located and checking it on the map, young Garner saw that it was as large as the state of New York. That agitated the gray matter for some little time, and he finally concluded that the best way in which he could hope to realize his ambition would be to cut that district in two. But how to go about this was a problem.

He very quickly perceived that the first essential step was to become a member of the Legislature, and attend to it himself. It was not a thing he realized, that he could afford to leave to others to do for him.

He became a candidate for the Legislature, was elected, and took his seat in 1898. With him to the state capital at Austin went the young bride and the baby, then 2 years old.

Still slender and boyish looking as to figure, he wore a long-tail, black jim-swinger coat, a flowing tie, and a derby hat, which settled well down on his head, almost to the ears.

From beneath the brim a strong nose was thrust out, sunburned to a brick-red color by the burning glare of the plains, and generally in a state of peel from the effects of sun and wind.

Mrs. Garner, noting the unbecoming effect of the derby one day, quietly went out and bought him a soft slouch hat.

Changes Hat Style

Without a word he switched hats, and has stuck to the soft felt variety ever since. Friends are always giving him new hats. But for this he would probably wear his old ones indefinitely. He loves them, and hates to part with them. Few men in Congress have ever been more indifferent to clothes.

He provoked considerable good-natured joking back in Austin, at the turn of the century, as he settled down to the business of being a legislator.

And now the young firm of Garner & Co. congratulated themselves most heartily that the junior member had mastered the pot-hooks of stenography. There was no money in the slender family purse for a private secretary. Mrs. Garner took over the job, and hasn't been fired yet. She is still holding it down in the Speaker's private office room in the Capitol.

The senior member of the firm busied himself at once with the task of carving out a Congressional district as his own exclusive property. To arrange this, he quickly saw, would not be easy. However, Providence helps those who help themselves. The 1900 census gave him his opportunity. This showed that the population of Texas had increased to such an extent that the state was entitled to more Representatives in Congress. Garner ran for a second term, won again, and once more went up to Austin. He was now stripped for action.

By cultivating friendship, he succeeded in his second, and last term, in having himself elected chairman of the redistricting committee of the House. As chairman he redistricted the whole state. When the job was finished, and the report had been submitted, it was seen that among other new districts he had created one which included Uvalde County.

Nothing to Hide

Then young John N. Garner got out in the middle of the aisle, faced his fellows, and went straight to the point. He didn't try to conceal anything. He frankly told his colleagues that he wanted to go to Congress, and that he had fixed it so that he could do so. He hoped the House would stand by him.

Standing there in the aisle, his face flushed with eagerness, his boyish figure tense with anxiety, he took a sheet of paper from his pocket and drew upon it a map, marking off the proposed new Uvalde district, which, he showed, stretched for more than four hundred miles along the Rio Grande, from Brownsville westward, a district containing 22 huge counties, some of them larger than some of the smaller states of the Union. All were sparsely populated.

The House listened, and was hypnotized by the young man's engaging candor. But it adjourned, without taking action.

HUNDREDSSEND COACH MODELS

Several hundred boys and girls in the reading area of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph have displayed their interest in the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild $500 Napoleonic Coach contest by submitting coaches assembled from the cut-outs recently distributed by the Sun-Telegraph.

The time limit for sending in entries ended at midnight last night. The coaches sent in represent many hours of tedious labor and the majority of the entries illustrate the painstaking efforts of the junior craftsmen.

There are so many entries which will require unusual care and study in judging, that the winners will not be announced for at least two weeks.

Business Bureau Moves Quarters

The Better Business Bureau, which has been active in fighting swindling in Pittsburgh, is moving its headquarters today from the Chamber of Commerce Building to the Investment Building.

EAGER TO TELL ABOUT HER STOMACH

"I want to tell others about my experience with Pape's Diapepsin," says Mrs. B Eastman, 1300 California St., Denver, Colo. "I tried a lot of things for my indigestion, but none of them did any good. Then a friend persuaded me to take a few tablets of this wonderful preparation.

"Now I even eat cabbage without any distress afterwards. It used to cause real suffering. I am not nearly so nervous as I used to be; feel much stronger and better in every way."

A medicine must have real merit to bring forth enthusiastic statements like this. And when not one, but hundreds, even thousands, are telling the same story of success, there seems no reason to doubt the day-in and day-out reliability of Pape's Diapepsin to help stomach sufferers.

Flo Ziegfeld's 'Hot-Cha' Gives Nixon Audience A Great Show

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Folks, you know, of course, what havoc a Florenz Ziegfeld show wreaks upon a reviewer's vocabulary. Well, the reviewer here and now giving testimony in the case tried as "Hot-Cha" before a packed jury in the Nixon last night, deposeth and sayeth that "Hot Cha" makes even more difficult the position of a poor scribbler trying to eke out the limited number of synonyms for colorful, gorgeous, resplendent, amusing, entertaining, tuneful, etc. You know—so they'll not be used too often in one sentence, and at the same time give the reader an impression that any word that faintly suggests the superlative degree in the matter of bestowing an encomium—or any number of 'em—is fully justified.

Actually the audience went gaga, and the reviewer is in about the same condition.

It can be done, of course, this assembling of praiseful adjectives merely by recalling some circus press agent's panegyric but all of such dictionary specimens in the final analysis merely would mean what can be expressed in everyday language signifying that "Hot-Cha" is a bang-up good show—which it is—with all the replendent trimmin's that are expected of any entertainment sponsored by Ziegfeld—and that's a lot. Some day, of course, Mr. Ziegfeld will fail to break his own record of pre-eminent showmanship, but as long as he has come through so gloriously in this instance, why worry about that?

DOWN IN MEXICO

"Hot-Cha," taking its title from the home of the chile-con-carne and the tamale, goes to that land also for its action, which whirls in concentric revolution about an eccentric evolution. Bert Lahr and the bull. Define bull with or without any animal in mind and it will be right either way. Does Bert Lahr toss the bovine! Boy, he does! Does he mangle the king's English! Yes, sir! Yes, ma'am! And is it funny! Joe Miller even could take lessons from Bert Lahr, who we think has been subsidized by tailors who profit by his vest-splitting and wrecking of button anchorage.

Mexico finds Bert Lahr, or "Alky," to give him his "Hot-Cha" de-fun, in its midst as a vet entertainer, and, with dy-aforethought, the cre- of the piece, Messrs. Lew n, Ray Henderson and Mark nger, wave their magic wand him and make him a mata- dor. Can you imagine it? If you can and know Bert Lahr, you can vision the fun of the situation.

It reaches the height of the ludicrous in a scene depicting the training quarters for matadors in which he is to take a few lessons in etiquette that is proper when one is in company with an angry bull. To describe it briefly is impossible. If the bull could have seen Lahr then it would have laughed itself to death, as the audience almost did.

MARJORIE IS PEPPY

Ably abetting Lahr was Marjorie White, from the movies. Majorie is small and blonde and cute and fulla pep. We refrain from calling her pint-size because she's a gal that will fill your heart no matter what capacity it has. She's a comedienne who can sing in the way you like to hear songs sung. The movies didn't do right by Marjorie, but Mr. Ziegfeld has remedied all that in giving her some intriguing ditties, "I Want Another Portion of That" and "Jose, Can't You See!" and "There's Nothing the Matter With Me."

The artistic singing honors of the evening went to Tito Coral, who has a real voice, especially appreciated in "For You," the applause for which indicated that Tito had made plenty of friends. He also had another number, "The Song of the Matadors," the rousing effect of which was augmented by a male chorus.

Since "Hot-Cha" is a musical comedy, there has to be a romantic angle, and a romantic angle calls for juvenile leads, one of which is played by Buddy Rogers, who has left Hollywood. "Hot-Cha" is evidence that Hollywood did not do right by its Buddy, for he is much better than a lot of pictures made him.

Fair and willowy June Knight in the ingenue role, opposite Buddy, proved to be another reason for the eclat of the evening. With him she sang the probable song hit, "You Can Make My Life a Bed of Roses."

Lynne Overman had charge of the proceedings in the straight comedy department. He appeared as a promoter and he was so oily that he was not long in establishing a high standing as an adept in the lighter veins of fun-making. Bob Gleckler, as a Mexican cabaret owner, also was hot stuff.

More singing just must be mentioned, and the reason for it is June MacCloy, whose pleasing rendition of "Little Old New York" was just a bit "different." Also Revve Reyes, for her "Conchita."

Now come we to the dancing, which, of course, has been interspersing the work of all those who have been mentioned, and among the chief steppers were Veloz and Yolanda, as well as the De Marcos, two teams that merit such raves as "marvelous" for their graceful exhibitions.

The hour grows late and the end of space looms, and yet we haven't said one word about the "glorified" girls. They are a big part of the show, of course, and there are plenty of them, all great "lookers," and they show evidence of having been well drilled. Bobby Connolly did the drilling, and that should be assurance enough.

We should like to make a show of fine writing by parading all of the adjectives that were hinted at the outset as appropriate, but, if you see (as you should, to be kind to yourself) this flash of color and beauty and youth and balanced intermingling of daffy and deft comedy, and artful blending of music and dancing, to make it a complete and satisfying whole, you will realize that "Hot-Cha" needs no bombast, because the simple truth that it is a fine show is all that is required.

Ethel Barrymore Is Royal In Sheridan Comedy Of Immortal Wit

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Trifles make perfection, but perfection is no trifle, said some one who might have seen something like the performance of "The School for Scandal" put on by Ethel Barrymore at the Alvin Theater last night. Richard Brinsley Sheridan's comedy itself would deserve such praise, for it is as polished a piece of social satire and literary elegance as any wit has ever produced. But the way it was played brought out all its sparkle and spirit—the grace and point of the dialogue—the undercurrent of sentiment—the perfume of an age in which the courtly humor of Addison was dressed up in the proud feathers of Sir Joshua Reynolds and Thomas Gainsborough. Ethel Barrymore did well to revive this evergreen classic, and did even better by bestowing upon it the patience, almost genius, that a classic usually requires to survive a revival.

George Seibel

Everything was in the spirit of Sheridan's age—the age of lace and ruffles, of snuff and beauty patches, of rapiers and repartee. Even the music—the minuets played by a harp trio—seemed part of the atmosphere and was rapturously applauded by the audience. And the stage settings of Watson Barratt, with their musty splendor, added to the illusion. As for the costumes of that picturesque period, Sir Peter Lely and Sir Godfrey Kneller would have given a hundred guineas to paint Ethel Barrymore in her ravishing gowns.

THERE WAS ACTING TOO

Let it not be thought there was no acting. Miss Barrymore was superbly at ease in a part that ranges from frothy frivolity to sad sincerity. Few actresses could have made this transition as convincingly as she does after the screen scene. The tremulous and almost tearful accents of her voice, the quiet humility of her bearing, were genuinely superb. It is one of the best things Ethel Barrymore has played, and one of the best Lady Teazles ever seen here.

Honors were divided with Charles H. Croker-King, who played Sir Peter Teazle. It is difficult to act this part without seeming a fatuous old fool, which Sir Peter was not. But to prove he was not, he must be played with all those trifling touches that make the smooth perfection of the consistent character. Croker-King is all the time smiling at himself—he knows how foolish he appears—but he loves his wife, and that is sufficient excuse for being ridiculous.

Next honors go to Harry Plimmer as Sir Oliver Surface and Arthur Treacher as Sir Benjamin Backbite. The bluff joviality of the one, the supercilious affectation of the other, were limned with delightful lucidity.

CHARACTERS LIKE CAMEOS

Lucidity is the distinctive quality of this production. The characters are as clearly cut as cameos. The sentences, chiseled to absolute symmetry, follow one another like a string of pearls. And the actors put this all across the footlights without a miss except now and then an accent on the wrong word—as when Charles Surface says to Joseph he would "borrow some of your morality," where the stress should be upon "your."

But Walter Gilbert was a splendid Charles Surface, and McKay Morris made the unctuous hypocrisy of Joseph credible, while A. G. Andrews—one of Richard Mansfield's fine young men—gave a genial character study of Moses. Another Mansfieldian, Ernest Rowan, was quite ophidian as Snake, Marcell Dill proved joyously fantastic as Trip, and Ralph Roberts put animation into Rowley.

Among the women, the girlish candor of Erna Rowan as Maria was the most notable contribution to the acting—Beatrice Terry as Lady Sneerwell and Anita Rothe as Mrs. Candour might have shaded their scandalous dispositions somewhat.

But it is joy unalloyed to see this fine old comedy so well presented—to laugh again at the auction of the pictures, to thrill again at the dramatic denouement of the screen scene. A profound reverence and a gallant toast to Ethel Barrymore for providing the opportunity.

Things I Never Noodle Now

(Poddin My Sockasm)

That a college education is a necessity! (See the case of Esteb vs. Esteb Supreme Court of Washington, 1926).

That there is a short street in Greenwich Village named Charles street on one side and Van Nest street on the other.

That telegraph companies use less electricity when sending messages than when the lines are idle.

That there is a town in France that belongs to Spain. The French were slicked out of it by a trick treaty.

That Curfew comes from the French word couvre-feu, meaning cover fire. Wm. The Conqueror started the gag. At 8 p. m. each night when the bells bonged you had to douse your blazes and candles, etc.

That A-1 originated with Lloyd's, the insurance agents, "A" meaning "perfect hull" and "1" meaning equipment in good order.

That we said it costs a nickel to send a penny money order when it really costs 8 cents! (A stamp costs two cents, you dope!)

That Pola Negri is the only woman in the world who can chew gum and seem romantic at the same time.

That red is the most fugitive of the colors. Yellow travels slowest, so it is the easiest to see on billboards.

That English teachers make their pupils say: "Gotten is rotten" to keep them from using the archaic word "gotten."

That the real family name of Phillips Holmes in English means "Little Lover" or "Sweetheart." (One of my favorite actors, anyway).

That the Queen of Clubs reminds me that Miriam Hopkins looks like the comedy mask of the theater.

That Norman Sullivan says the gunfire is so constant around Shanghai, one correspondent thought he was in a burlesk show.

That the Journal of Commerce of N. Y., proves that 98 per cent of all business enterprises are doomed to failure.

That the motto of the State of Washington is "Al-ki," which means bye-bye—or ta-ta, to you.

That if you consume one-half pound of butter before going gay on Wyoming Ketchup you can drink an elephant under a carpet.

That in Berlin's smartest thoroughfare, "Unter Den Linden," every third house has a "To Let" notice.

That ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, who was generally blamed for the Big Tiff, received more congratulatory telegrams and letters on his birthday this year than he ever received.

That if your auto is equipped with a radio the darn thing won't play when it is going through the Holland Tunnel.

That New York City has two parks named Claremont Park. One is in the Bronx and the other next to the Rockefeller Church.

That 30 years ago a boy riding a bike in England was fined for speeding. Last year the same lad was Knighted by King George for shattering the world's auto speed record. His name is Sir Malcolm Campbell.

That a clock will soon make its appearance which will have perpetual motion and will be governed by a thermometer.

That according to a survey taken recently at the University of Chicago men were found to be smarter than women. Haw!

That according to a test in Chicago 84 per cent of the "good likker" was found to be moonshine. (What? Only 84 per cent?)

That in the Dictionary (an unusually reliable source) Death comes before Life—and Divorce before Marriage. (Catch on?)

That Shamokin, Pa., has more pretty girls for its size and population than any other U. S. city.

That it was Socrates who said: "One thing I know and that is that I know nothing." (Huh. A compliment fisherman!)

That in China it once was a crime to be single.

That a sign in St. Paul's lower Broadway graveyard warns you not to sit on the tombstones. (Anything to spoil a guy's fun).

The longest run of any show, The Flea Circus on 42nd street! . . . It's little things like that that make big hits like that, at that.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough due to a cold. It takes but a moment to mix, costs little, and saves money, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

The show, in two acts and 32 scenes, is headed by Eddie Kaplan, chief fun maker; Ruth Brown, comedienne, and La Verne Williams and Vi Buckley, singers and dancers, the latter principal billed as the "Ginger Girl." Two sketches with Miss Brown as the principal, "Oh What a Kiss" and "Just Hot" and another specialty number, "At the Stage Door," featuring Mildred Cozierre, are highlights.

Extra protection against winter COLDS

A great way to save $2 a quicker way to stop a cold

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as any other leading mouth wash. Hence it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

IT'S plain to see—the difference between Pepsodent Antiseptic and other kinds is a big difference to the public. It's the difference between one dollar or three—the difference between positively killing germs or fooling oneself by diluting old-style antiseptics. After all, there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On one side you have the mouth wash that kills germs only when used full strength. On the other side you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe, when used full strength, yet powerful enough when diluted with two parts of water, to kill germs in 10 seconds. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading antiseptics. Hence, it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you greater protection against sore throat colds. What a fine way to save money. Instead of paying $3 for three bottles, you pay $1 for one bottle and make it go as far as three—just mix as you use it. For years 3 people in 4 have diluted ordinary antiseptics but now they've discovered their mistake. When choosing your antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when mixed with water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

This is matinee week for Ethel Barrymore and her company, who are appearing in a revival of Sheridan's comedy, "The School For Scandal." They're resting today after two performances yesterday and are contemplating another two-a-day sched for tomorrow. The third afternoon show of the week will be on Saturday. Miss Barrymore has been trouping in the Sheridan piece since last summer and has taken it into 45 states as well as five provinces of Canada. Some record, say we. Sez you! Say we.

The progress of Joseph Urban, who designed the settings of "Hot-Cha," the new Ziegfeld production in the Nixon, is closely associated with the march of the producer, himself, who gave Mr. Urban his first important assignments. His work has been ornately and conspicuously evident not only in various "Follies" but in other Ziegfeld hits, including "Whoopee," "Rio Rita," "Rosalie," "Show Boat," etc.

German Farce Very Funny in Cinema

Laughter rules the picture in the German Cinema this week, where "Der Wahre Jakob"—which may be translated "Jack-in-the-Box"—unfolds one of those popular comedies in which the pillars of the Society for the Suppression of Vice go to the big city and vice suppresses them. Felix Bressart and Ralph Arthur Roberts are rare birds of hilarious hypocrisy, and Anny Ahlers makes a delightful revue star. How everybody is at last brought together in the little town, and every Jack gets his Jill, while the Society for the Suppression of Vice is left with only one member, is shown in a rapid-fire farce without a dull flash. There is also a very beautiful travel picture of the Vale of Kashmir and a comic film with remarkable animal actors.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

Last night was a memorable one for Pittsburgh's first nighters with Ziegfeld bringing "Hot-Cha" to the Nixon and Ethel Barrymore appearing at the Alvin in "The School for Scandal."

And society scintillated at both houses. Many of the younger set were to be found at the Nixon applauding Bert Lahr. Genevieve Bell in cranberry red crepe arrived in a party including Emily Frew, back from Lake Placid. Mary Franklin Robinson chose aquamarine blue satin with the deep reveres following the line of the decolletage edged in kolinksy. With her were the Leslie W. Youngs.

* * *

In Black Velvet

During the one intermission I had a glimpse in the crowded lobby of Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, Jr., in pale blue satin, and of Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson and Mrs. Stockton Rush in beige lace.

Others I noted were Mrs. W. W. Blair, Jr., Mrs. George Harton Singer, Jr., and Mrs. John F. Walton, who with Mr. Singer and Mr. Walton occupied a box. Mrs. Simon T. Patterson in black velvet, Mrs. Jack Bissell, Mrs. J. Porter Gillespie in black velvet, Mrs. Harvey Childs III, Mrs. F. Kent Hanson in black crepe and Mrs. Theodore F. Smith.

Gowned In Red

* * *

* * *

Of course, society turned out for its long-time favorite, Ethel Barrymore. There was a family party consisting of Mrs. Roy A. Hunt, who wore white brocade with a narrow sable collar; Mr. Hunt and one of their sons, and Mrs. Mortimer Miller, Mrs. Hunt's mother, who wore a black caracul coat with a collar of chinchilla.

Seen at Alvin

With her daughter, Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, was Mrs. John Worthington, who wore black chiffon. Mrs. J. L. Dawson Painter, in a short flame velvet coat with a cryshed collar, worn over a black velvet gown having a circular cape effect ending in points at the elbows and with a touch of Nile green at the decolletage, was accompanied by her father, William Maclay Hall.

MME. SORABJI ADDRESSES CLUB

Gandhi Declared Great Obstacle To Progress

Appearing in native costume and championing British rule in India, Mme. Cornelia Sorabji, leader of the feminist movement in India, addressed the Twentieth Century Club yesterday. England, she said, has given India the greatest opportunity that one race could give another and India has embraced it, despite the handicap of Hinduism. There need be no more famine nor epidemic in India owing to British sanitary service and irrigation. The country is well equipped agriculturally. Politically all the high offices are open to both Indians and English.

India is preparing to govern herself, Mme. Sorabji said as she traced the steps leading up to this progressive self-government granted by King George and the placing of all key service in the hands of the natives.

Gandhi is the great obstacle to progress, she believes. All sects would be willing to accept separate representation but Gandhi stands alone for absolute independence; his ideas of love and freedom are difficult to understand, she observed. Mme. Sorabji described him as a very vain man and not really a mahatma for a "holy man" never makes use of spiritual means to achieve a political end.

Gandhi Obstacle

Gandhi, she said, knows India is not a nation of weavers, yet he orders his followers to spin; he knows that hand woven garments are the luxury of the rich, yet he compels the poor to wear them; he forbids the use of machinery though he knows that the mills which could give occupation to thousands of people are standing idle. At the same time, Mme. Sorabji charges, Gandhi's own mills are working full time and he holds a monopoly on Japanese cloth.

Dainty little 5-year-old Esther May Postgate played an unannounced part in the Washington's birthday party given last night by the senior Homewood Women's Club for the junior members. The program had been arranged by Miss Zella Breckenridge, Mrs. Garret E. Cooper, the president, and Mrs. H. L. Doverspike, and included a playlet, "Little Lady Dresden," a reading from Washington's farewell address by Annabelle Confer, a minuet directed by Miss Esther Cook, and music by Mrs. H. A. Letterman and Miss Pearl Cypher. Little Esther, in costume, and with a pretty speech, presented Mrs. Confer and Miss Cook with colonial bouquets.

BROWN IS FAVORED FOR SPRING WEAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Early spring sees the practical ensemble enjoying a real success. Every house is concentrating on wearable ensembles done in woolens, stressing a bright, youthful note, and made with all evidences of careful treatment and workmanship. The woman who spends a great deal of her day out of doors is particularly addicted to this type of garment, as it fits unobtrusively into any scheme and is most flattering to every type. Brown is being much used and in place of the white used so much with that color last spring, two tones of brown are being shown and very much liked. Many women now make their general utility outfits all of brown, preferring that color to black for that purpose, as the former hue is much more trim and attractive for general wear. Now as to the newest ensembles for street wear. Many of them are not fur trimmed, instead color contrasts, scarves or capelets are being used to provide the dressy aspect. Such a coat is much more youthful and trim than the fur-trimmed variety and expresses its purpose so much better. The simple frocks use piecings not only to mould the silhouette but to provide the necessary embellishment, a splendid form of trimming and always popular.

* * *

LUCIEN LELONG is showing some attractive ensembles for present wear and so we thought that you might find a sketch of a typical model interesting. The coat is done in medium brown woolen with a soft knotting surface with dark brown woolen used for the shoulder yoke, scarf and the cape at the back. A bright idea is the placing of a narrow strip of pale green woolen between the two shades of brown. There are no fastenings on the coat, it being held shut by a belt of the material. The cape starts at the back of the sleeves carrying on the line of the set-in-shoulder yoke seen at the front. It drips in a deep curve almost to the top of the belt.

* * *

THE FROCK is of the dark brown woolen that matches the yoke and cape on the coat. Pale green woolen in the same tone as the coat trimming makes the insets at the neckline and in the lower sleeve. An encrusted piecing on the bodice follows the lines of a bolero with short oversleeves. Another piecing over the hips is loose at the top to allow for two pockets. The belt is of brown leather fastening with a heavy buckle of steel.

HOOVER MODERN NERO, SAYS COX

IRWIN, Pa., Feb. 23.—President Hoover, who "sings his song of confidence" while people throughout the country call for federal aid, was likened to Nero, who fiddled while Rome burned, by the Rev. James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church in an address here last night. Speaking in the First Presbyterian Church under the auspices of the American Legion, Father Cox said:

"Historians tell us that Nero fiddled while the city of Rome was being destroyed. Today President Hoover sits in Washington and sings his song of 'have confidence' while thousands starve. This, too, unless some help comes soon, will destroy our nation."

Tricked out of romance by a PIMPLY SKIN

IF your skin is badly blemished—if poor complexion makes you ashamed to be seen—you don't need to be told how fatal it is to your charm and daintiness.

What you do long to know is how to end pimples, blackheads, coarse pores or other stubborn skin faults. Ordinary creams are powerless to help. They cannot correct the deep-rooted pore-clogging impurities that irritate—inflame—disfigure your skin.

But here is a sodium treatment—scientifically blended, scientifically tested, scientifically approved. And it is effective. Perfected by a doctor—nurses were among the first to use it. They recommended it to delighted friends. Now 6,000,000 women say it's the most important step to facial loveliness.

This famous beauty aid is Noxzema, the snow-white, greaseless medicated skin cream that actually purges and heals. Its ingredients have an intensely purgative effect on facial pores—free them of choking poisonous matter — heals sore, enlarged skin holes.

Start now on this simple treatment. Soon others will envy your lovely skin. Smooth on Noxzema every night after removing all make-up. Every morning you'll see added improvement, until your skin becomes flawless, fine-textured, even pored, clear. And Noxzema will keep it young and appealing.

Let Noxzema prove that the alluring radiance of a lovely, healthy skin is not for just a lucky few.

Congressman D.A.R. Guest At Washington Luncheon

With Congressman Hamilton Fish, of New York, as the chief speaker, Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its anual Washington Birthday luncheon in the Hotel Scheley, yesterday. Elaborate and unusual decorations marked the event. Large American flags and the chapter's banner were prominent, of course, and hung with them were two portraits of George and Martha Washington done on glass in England 150 years ago. These were loaned by Mrs. John M. Phillips. On the table vases of red and white carnations alternated with blue candles and linking all were festoons of broad blue ribbon. Mrs. Anna Laura Cree, chapter member, sang solos and supplementing these were numbers by Mary Redmond, violin, and Hulda Lefridge, piano.

Sewickley Club Juniors Give Washington Affair

A large audience of Sewickley Valley Woman's Club members and guests witnessed the Washington Bicentennial program put on yesterday by the club juniors. It consisted of a series af nine tableaux beautifully executed, some of the costumes being more than 100 years old. Miss Susan Potter O'Neil was George Washington; Mrs. Hampton Tener was Martha; Miss Alice Gundelfinger, as the archivist, read from Washington's diary between the scenes, and the Spirit of the Past was portrayed by Mrs. Henry Milo Curry, Jr. A minuet was also a charming feature. Many luncheon parties were held at the Edgeworth Club prior to the afternoon's program.

Club News

A patriotic tableau, numbers by the club choral in colonial costume, a vocal solo and minuet by little Edith Rickley, and an original Mt. Vernon sketch by Mrs. Edward Stotz made up an interesting program for the Ingram Woman's Club yesterday. Firemen's Association Hall, where the meeting was held, was decorated with heirlooms loaned by the members. Tea was served.

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

No One Respects Either a Weakling or a Bully

Do ladies prefer 'em rough?

That's what Rufe asked. He tried being meek and mild, and letting the girl friend run things her way, and for a while things went right merrily.

Then she left him flat for a big, brutal bozo who slapped her around—and made her like it.

So Rufe began to wonder if maybe there wasn't something in this stuff about ladies liking cave men, and asked for a tip or two from the gals themselves.

And here's Helen with plenty of 'em.

Does she go in for guys who roust 'em around? Does she think there's romance in menace? Get in on her broadcast and see. It's good.

HE WAS TOO SOFT

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I just read that letter from Rufus, whose girl friend passed him up for a fellow who treats her rough. He asks if that kind of a man is more fascinating to us girls.

"Well, maybe that particular girl thought so, but I'm right here to tell you that here's one who doesn't! And I don't mean maybe! Do you know what was wrong with Rufus? He was so anxious to make a hit with this girl that he acted like a spineless doormat, and pretty soon she thought he was just a weak sister and began to despise him.

"I think people generally despise folks who won't stand up for their own rights, but sort of crawl and let themselves be imposed on. At least I do. So do most of the girls I go around with. And I've seen boys who didn't like girls with no spirit, too.

OBJECTS TO CAVE MEN

"Girls like fellows who are strong and have minds of their own. Most folks realize that people who are doormats for them are just as likely to be doormats for the rest of the world, too, and will be pretty weak reeds to depend on. That's my idea about what happened to Rufus.

"So far as cave men are concerned, I can't think of anything that would be worse to have around permanently.

"Of course a man like that might seem terribly romantic at first, providing you could kid yourself that he was acting that way because he was so overcome with your charms that he just had to grab you and club you into submission.

"But my guess is that no man acts that way because he feels that way about the girl, but because he is so stuck on himself that he must grab whatever he thinks he wants, no matter whom it hurts.

"It strikes me that a person with notions like that would make a mighty poor partner to have, even in a business deal, let alone to marry. It strikes me that he'd keep on walking right over other people, including the girl who fell for his line, for the rest of his life, and would have no consideration whatever for anyone's feelings but his own. And then where would the silly girl be?

BE CONSIDERATE

"Believe me! The 'thrill' would soon wear off!

"And I'm right here to tell you that my boy friend suits me just the way he is. He speaks up for himself if he needs to, to me, as well as to other folks. But he always considers me and the way I feel about things, too.

"He does all sorts of nice things to please me and make me happy, but he expects me to give him a square deal, too. And I expect to give him one. I wouldn't respect him, otherwise. I'd respect him and love him a lot less if he tried to walk on me.

"So take a tip, Rufus. Be a man. Be strong. But be considerate, too. Don't try to walk on girls. But don't let them walk on you either!

"HELEN."

Atta girl, Helen!

That letter's got a lot of good sound sense in it—for anybody. No one respects or loves either a doormat or a despot.

Fay King Sees Love Problem in Woman Betrothed Again Before Divorced

THE WOMAN WHO BECOMES ENGAGED BEFORE SHE IS DIVORCED IS SOMETIMES JILTED WHEN SHE IS FREE!
WHEN SHE IS FREE TO MARRY HIM HE IS INTERESTED IN SOMEONE ELSE
FAY KING

By FAY KING

We have a new love problem these days in the women who become engaged before they are divorced.

A few of them have found themselves jilted when they were free to marry.

Men who make love to married women usually wish to avoid marriage; that is why they shun single girls.

If he is important and rich an ambitious woman will divorce her husband and expects to marry him. She makes no secret of her aim.

Thinking to hold him better to their bargain she often enters into an intimacy of which he tires by the time she is free to marry.

It's a great gamble. Few win.

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Avoids a Conflict Over Edith Fairfax

I found my voice in short order, when Dicky asked me why the casual mention of Ede's name should turn me to stone as if I had seen a gorgon's head.

"But it didn't," I said innocently wide-eyed. Not for worlds would I have had Dicky guess how his sudden mention of Edith Fairfax's name had affected me. "I'll admit it startled me, for I haven't seen, heard, nor thought of Ede since the day she called on me at the hospital. How is she, anyway? Well, I hope."

Dicky grinned engagingly at me.

"Going to be casual if she breaks her swan-like neck, so she is," he said. "Come on now, 'fess up to pape. You don't care a tinker's—collar button—whether she's well or ill."

"Perhaps I don't," I admitted, smiling back at him. "But at that, I fancy my feeling—or lack of it—is reciprocated by the young woman."

"I fawncy that may be so," Dicky mimicked me provokingly, "but your inquiry deserves an answer. Miss Fairfax is very well, or was the last time I heard from her. She was quite in her usual form as she descanted upon my laziness as compared with her perennial industry."

There was something in his voice which gladdened me perversely, for it strengthened an old belief of mine inculcated by Lillian. She had said that he was getting "fed up" with the constant iteration of his efficient business partner in their art magazine venture that the division of labor in their partnership was unequal and that the feminine partner carried the heavier load. But wisely I kept silent. It was all very well for Dicky to criticize Edith himself, but I knew that if I joined him I would lay myself open to the accusation of being jealous of this girl, who, indeed had given me much cause for jealousy and heartache in the past.

I had been so blissfully happy since the last Christmas time, which had brought to me the knowledge that for the second time the accolade of motherhood was to be mine, that I felt armed against any woman, even this one, whose dearest secret hope, I knew, was that Dicky and I should become permanently estranged. After all, I reminded myself with a thrill of pity for any woman not so blessed. I had everything—my husband, my young son, my baby daughter, and my promise of recognition in the dramatic world. Edith, I knew, was lonely, with neither husband nor children, and with the frustrated hopes of an art career behind her.

How perverse Fate was! I reflected, not for the first time when thinking of the pretty Virginia girl who had come up from her native state with her sister, Leila, at about the time of my marriage, and who had made so gallant and futile an attempt to gain fame in the world of art. They had done "pretty" work of no particular value, had the Fairfax sisters, but they had made valuable friendships in the art colony of which Dicky and Lillian were prominent members.

Leila had given up the struggle early and had married Alfred Durkee, a young art editor, who was one of Dicky's nearest friends. But Edith never had married, not from lack of opportunity, I knew, but because her love for Dicky permitted her to think romantically of no other man.

She loved Dicky—deeply—hopelessly, and down in North Carolina, the home of her great-aunt, Miss Dora Paige, there was a man who loved her in the same blind, hopeless fashion. Dr. Jim Paige—her "doth or fifth cousin," as he always called himself—had laid himself and his not inconsiderable fortune at her feet many times. Always he had received the same answer, and always he had gone back to his native town more determined than ever in his belief that some time his luck would change and she would listen to him.

But that time had never come. I feared now that it never would, and it was in a distinctly softened mood that I answered Dicky's little fling at Edith.

"I suppose she does find it hard in the city in this heat," I said.

"There you go," Dicky retorted, "always turning on the heavy sympathy for something you don't know anything about. It's Ede's own fault she stays in the city. She could run that magazine with one hand behind her three days a week and spend the rest of the time at the seashore or the mountains or at Leila's in Marvin, where she commutes every day, anyway. But she thinks the whole thing would collapse and be shoved down the freight elevator if she wasn't on the job from Monday morning until Saturday noon of every week. What can you do with a fanatic like that, I ask you, and I'll hand you the answer in the same breath—absolutely nothing! But, she knows very well that she hasn't any royal appointment as pacemaker to me. I thrashed that out with her long ago and I think she realizes the hopelessness of ever getting me into hectic action, although she regularly takes me for a ride on the subject.

"But," he changed his tone abruptly, "will you tell why in the hinges of hades we're wasting time discussing Ede? Woman, you've got a right pert bit of work before you. Suppose you get busy on it."

Too Warm

When chocolate appears gray on the outside, it does not mean that it is in any way spoiled. It has simply become too warm.

Household Hints

It is very important to pare fruit with a silver knife. A steel knife will frequently cause discoloration and leave a disagreeable metallic flavor on the fruit.

If you will soak the new toothbrush in a glass of cold water over night you will find the bristles will not come out so easily and the brush will, therefore, last longer.

An excellent back-porch shoe scraper can be made by nailing the back of a large scrubbing brush to some convenient and inconspicuous place on the floor. The shoes can be cleaned off nicely before entering the house.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

On Cars and Elevators

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it proper for a man to precede a woman when getting on a train or car, or any other vehicle?

2. On entering and leaving elevators, when the man is with a woman, or if they do not know each other, should the man precede the woman? V. J. S.

1. When a man and a woman are together, the man helps the woman to get on the car or train . . . he helps her by taking hold of her arm under the elbow, and then gets on the car after her.

2. When a man and woman are together and are entering an elevator, he stands aside for her to enter first. This sequence should be maintained, too, by a man when ladies whom he does not know are entering an elevator. Of course, in the very busy elevators of business sections this is not done since there is no time . . . and usually no inclination . . . to do it, just as there is no time or space for a man to take off his hat in a business elevator.

If the elevator is crowded, it is usually more helpful if the man goes out first, more or less clearing the way for the woman to follow, and then standing at the entrance to help her get off. If it is not crowded, he usually allows her to go first.

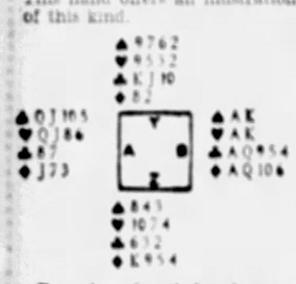
Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

The Costly First Trick

Sometimes the play of a hand appears so simple that we become heedless. Half the hands played win or lose the best obtainable results on the first trick, before every player has settled down to real business. This hand offers an illustration of this kind.



B made a fourth hand opening bid of 3-No Trumps. He evaded use of a demand bid; perhaps because he wanted to be the declarer; perhaps to score his 150 points for four aces at no-trumps. Nobody interfered with the bid.

The opening lead was Z's fourth best diamond. B won the trick with his 10. Hoping that later on some player might be obliged to lead a card of one or the other major suit, and clearing the way for such an event, B took two spade tricks and two heart tricks. Next he led a low club, which was captured by Y's 10, and a diamond was led through the declarer, to be won by Z's K. Back came a diamond, upon which A's J and B's Q fell together.

B laid down his Ace of clubs, followed by a smaller card, and Y won the third and last trick for his side. B scored game and one over-trick, receiving his partner's congratulations upon good bidding and play. But he had mishandled the play on his first trick. He should have won 12 tricks instead of 10.

Instead of winning the first lead of diamonds with his 10, B should have won with his Q, so that dummy's J would have become a sure card of entry. B next should have taken his two spade and two heart tricks, just as he played the hand. To make his small slam B next should have led his 10 of diamonds towards the dummy. If Z won the trick with his K, B would have next put dummy in with a lead of his own 6 diamonds. A could then have won two spade tricks and two heart tricks, and the declarer would have ended play by taking one club and one diamond trick.

Players must be on the watch against blocking entry to dummy as B did.

The hand given below was played at 4-Hearts doubled, and fulfilled its contract without being aided by an opponent's mistake. The opening lead was the K of clubs. Between now and tomorrow see if you can make four odd.

The Old Story

Paying a woman's penalty—time after time

In the year of 1932 there should be no monthly martyrs to pain. Some women still think they must suffer—they haven't heard of Midol—or can't believe that it has solved their problem.

• • •

Did you know that five to seven minutes after swallowing a tiny tablet you can be yourself—can be comfortable—can go about without feeling a single further twinge of muscular pain?

Your regular periods need not be painful—they are not painful to those who know of Midol. These wonderful tablets make Nature's process a mere incident. No pain, not even discomfort when you have learned to depend on Midol, as women who used to have the hardest time have found. It is not a narcotic, does not interfere with the process, but does stop the pain; relieves headaches, too; neuralgia, etc. Every drugstore has Midol.

There are no other motor cars like the new Cadillacs and LaSalles

For twenty years, motor cars built by Cadillac have been decidedly different in their interpretation of motoring luxury. But no car that Cadillac produced in the past has ever stood so completely apart as the new Cadillacs and La Salles. And this might logically be expected—for the new Cadillacs and La Salles represent an entirely new approach to every phase of fine-car designing. For instance, they have a Triple-Silent Syncro-Mesh Transmission—giving completely quiet operation in all gears—including low. And there are scores of additional Cadillac-La Salle advancements as highly individual as this. In fact, these cars are so different—not only in what they are, but also in what they do—that only a demonstration can reveal the full measure of their superiority. May we send you a Cadillac or a La Salle for a trial drive?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

How to Put on Weight . . . Diet and Rest Will Help

A hereditary tendency to leanness is found in certain families. Most of its members are small and slender, or tall and slight, with a delicate bony structure. This physicial type of person is commonly alert and active, with tense nerves and often shows symptoms of overaction of the thyroid gland.

Dr. Copeland

The mere fact that one is underweight cannot be considered as something abnormal. It is not inconsistent with good health.

But unfavorable home surroundings, improper food, anxiety and worry, as well as certain constitutional diseases, may produce a graver form of underweight. This demands immediate and careful attention, as a run-down state of health may be followed by serious complications.

The first step in the treatment of underweight is to determine the probable cause. In the case of young girls this is sometimes very difficult. Some of these object to giving information regarding their hours of sleep, their meals and other important details.

But with all available data, we must go ahead with certain rules, applicable to all cases. In the first place, there must be plenty of sleep, at least 10 to 12 hours at night. If possible, there should be a rest period of 15 minutes to half an hour in the afternoon. Reclining on a sofa is advised and in this way there is found complete relaxation during this time.

Second, there must be a correction of all digestive disorders and constipation. These conditions are all too common and must be overcome.

Third, there must be insistence on a nutritious diet. Without it there is no hope of a physical upbuilding.

Fourth, there are some medicines, such as tonics, etc., which may be helpful. Your doctor will advise about these.

Milk and cream are fattening and at least a quart of rich milk should be taken daily. Of this amount only three glasses are required as a beverage. The remaining half pint may be mixed with cream to be used on cereals or in the form of cream soups.

A short rest after meals encourages assimilation. You must not eat and run.

Breakfast might well consist of fruit, a cereal with cream and sugar, an egg or bacon, and either coca or weak coffee with cream. Rolls or toast with plenty of butter are an important part of the meal.

For lunch there may be a cream soup, a salad with oil dressing, a lamb chop or a beefsteak. For dessert it is well to have a pudding or bananas and cream. Bread or rolls with plenty of butter should be included, and cocoa may be taken if desired.

The dinner may begin with a meat or cream soup. Meat, potatoes, vegetables, bread and butter, supply the substantial foods. Then there will be a salad and dessert.

Milk is best taken between meals. Drink a cup in the middle of the morning and one in the middle of the afternoon and one on retiring.

If the appetite is poor a tonic may be required. Cod-liver oil and malt tonics are excellent.

A diet of the kind described may have a tendency to cause constipation. But bran, agar and fruit will usually overcome this tendency.

These suggestions will be helpful, I trust. Together with deep breathing, they will aid you in putting on weight.

P., W. VA. SHARES FUEL ORDERS

The price paid by the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad Company for coal is lower than it should be, but is based on the market and the business is distributed among operators along the line, C. O. Dambach, superintendent of operations, testified before Examiner George W. Berry, of the Interstate Commerce Commission today at the Chamber of Commerce.

The commission is investigating fuel purchases of railroads.

The company is now paying $1.25 a ton for lump coal and $1.15 a ton for egg coal, Dambach said. He added:

"My experience is that operators have not been making money. They have protested the price occasionally."

The railroad discontinued competitive bidding for fuel in 1928, Dambach said. It now places orders with each mining company along its lines in proportion to commercial shipments in the previous month.

BLAST DAMAGES 3 BUILDINGS

ROCHESTER, Feb. 23.—A mysterious explosion early today caused fire which routed two families, destroyed one building, wrecked a house and damaged another structure in Brighton avenue, heart of the business district.

Damage was estimated at $45,000.

The blast, which blew out windows in a wide area, occurred in a two-story frame house beside the Penn Fruit Market, owned by Victor Mazzocca. On the other side was the furniture store of W. A. and Henry Hartzell.

The fruit market was destroyed, the house was damaged inside and the roof, second floor and much of the stock of the furniture store was wrecked.

BRICKLAYERS TAKE $2 CUT

The Bricklayers' Union has agreed to accept a $2 reduction in wages, making the new scale $12 a day, according to an announcement by F. O. Reed, secretary of the Building Trades Employers Association. The agreement will be signed within the next few days, Reed said. Wage reductions have been accepted recently by the carpenters, sheet metal workers and stone cutters.

Trade, connected with the Building Trades Council for the most part have stood opposed to lower wages. The sheet metal workers were suspended from the Building Trades Council a short time after they announced their decision for a wage cut. Officers of the council said the suspension was temporary and involved other matters besides the wage policy.

LIBRARY'S BOOK LOANS MOUNT

Pittsburghers called upon the Carnegie Library for 503,610 more books in 1931 than in 1930, according to a summary released today by Ralph Munn, director. The increase brings the total number of books loaned for home reading to 3,829,629.

The summary pointed out no new agencies were opened and traced the increase to the depression. The increase amounted to 15 per cent and comes after one of 16 per cent in 1930, making the abnormal growth of 31 per cent during 1930-31.

The only new activity begun in 1931 is the reader's counselor's service which is being financed during the first three years by a grant from the Buhl Foundation.

Half Million Fund Deficit Faces Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 23.—(INS)—Yale University may wind up the current year with a deficit of a half million dollars, President James R. Angell told several hundred alumni. POLITICS

But One G. O. P. Fight For Delegate Looms

—By MARK SHIELDS—

While Democrats are having a Donnybrook fair throughout the state as to who shall go to their national convention as delegates, there is little evidence hereabouts of similar rivalry among Republicans for the honor of wearing a badge at Chicago in June.

Mr. Shields

In only one Allegheny County district is there a hint of a contest for the two places. That contest will not materialize unless the delegateship becomes involved in a struggle for local power. In the Thirty-second District former Senator M. G. Leslie is an avowed candidate for delegate. Friends of Walter Bonitz, long prominent in the background of Republican politics, have taken out petitions to similarly honor him, but Bonitz has not yet said he is a candidate.

A third possibility in this district is County Treasurer Bob Cain. Cain quite frankly says he is willing for someone else to have the honor, and that he is not a candidate now. But he will be if his friends ask him to serve as a symbol of local authority in the district. On that subject also he is frank, though adding he would not attempt to defeat Leslie.

Cain would become involved should he be asked to make the race by Senator James J. Coyne. Congressman P. J. Sullivan represents the Thirty-third District in Washington. Coyne and Sullivan are energetic foes. If the Senator thought the Congressman would gain any in stature through the election of Bonitz, or if he thought a fight on Bonitz would occupy time which the Congressman would need for his own campaign, he might ask Cain to run.

* * *

Real Fight Makings In Democrat Ranks

On fairly good authority it can be said that a Bonitz contest will not require a diverting of any of the Congressman's interest. Friends of the manufacturer say he is not sufficiently interested to engage in a fight, though he is sincerely desirous of going to Chicago.

Now consider the Democrats. There we have the makings of a real fight, a bitterness of difference which almost inevitably means a divided delegation at Chicago. The adherents of Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, continue to claim 66 out of 76 delegates. Those campaigning for an uninstructed delegation admit privately that, as between Roosevelt, Al Smith and the umnstructed principle, Roosevelt will have the greater Pennsylvania strength at Chicago.

Yesterday's action in Harrisburg by the Roosevelt-for-President League in selecting four candidates for delegate-at-large to run against candidates already on the state slate, who are for uninstruction, has torn the party machinery wide open. Three of those slated delegates who insist upon going to Chicago unpledged are National Chairman Sedgwick Kistler, State Chairman John Collins and Judge Henry C. Niles, of York County.

The Roosevelt ians, led by former National Committeeman Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, polled the slate within the past few days. The fact that a poll was thought necessary appears to explode the assumption that the last state meeting of the Democrats had adopted a resolution that all delegate-at-large candidates must support the popular primary choice.

* * *

Fight May Not End With Primary Day

The four named by the Roosevelt ians to oppose the state committee slate—which was drawn up in a conference embracing all factions—are Guffey, Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Monroe County, Warren Van Dyke and E. B. Zimmerman, the latter two recently having resigned as publicity director and secretary, respectively, of the state committee.

This action means fight, and it probably means fight which will not end on primary day, as it is beyond conception that Kistler, Collins and Judge Niles, the latter one of the most popular men in the party in the state, can all be beaten. If they are, then Kistler and Collins will have no option but to retire, and the Guffey contingent will organize the state committee at the next meeting.

Practically every congressional district will see the same fight that rages for delegate-at-large. There will be Roosevelt delegates and uninstructed delegates contesting, with the latter urging that Al Smith still is the party leader. Smith's name will be on the ballot, giving them a banner to rally about.

Some Democrats, claiming to be "devoted to Smith," but hopeless of his chances, contend Kistler and Collins are using Smith's name without his consent, and declared for Roosevelt at yesterday's meeting. Yet Smith has by no sign frowned on the movement for him here.

GIRL ADMITS ATTACK FAKE, MAN FREED

Charges Quashed When Child Repudiates Clubbing Story; Penned Note to Herself

Edward Farrand, 51, was freed and charges against him quashed in Criminal Court today as Dorothy Dodson, 13, of 717 Ridge avenue, repudiated her former story of being struck on the head with a club by him.

His release was temporarily delayed because the papers had not arrived from Morals Court.

The girl testified she had been struck by a younger sister. She told the court she was sorry she had caused Farrard's arrest.

Showing an injury on her head when she reported to St. Peter's Parochial School Tuesday morning, Dorothy said she had been beaten with a club by a shabbily dressed man at Ridge avenue and Bank street. The unemployed colony on Monument Hill was searched for her assailant. Thursday police arrested Farrand. Dorothy identified him and he was held for court.

Saturday morning the girl's father found a note pinned to the door of his home, which informed him the right man had been arrested, but that he had worn a false mustache at the time of the attack.

Lieut. Harry E. Moore became suspicious when the girl was found gagged in the hall of her home, Sunday morning, he said. When the lieutenant questioned her Dorothy is said to have admitted she penned the note herself, because she wanted to live with her grandmother.

Dorothy and two younger sisters were taken yesterday to Faulkner's office, where she admitted her story of the attack by the man was false, police said. The wound on her head, she said, was inflicted by one of her sisters with the buckle of her father's razor strop.

Lawrenceville Joins Fight on Utility Rates

Growth of the state-wide campaign against excessive public utility rates today continued to gain interest while City Council awaits the conference Thursday morning with President Frank R. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company, as to possible reductions by local utilities.

The Arsenal Board of Trade, meeting tonight in the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh, Lawrenceville, will hear an outline of the objectives of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association, with indications it will join in the domestic consumers' fight.

The rate condition will be discussed tomorrow night at a public meeting of the Thirty-second Ward unit, League of Women Voters, beginning at 8 p. m., in the Overbrook Municipal Building. Fair rate advocates, including Harry Bastow, president, and C. V. Shoup, secretary, of the Allied Boards of Trade, will be the principal speakers.

Scott Township will stage a rally Thursday night in Falcon Hall, Glenn avenue, Glendale. The protest meeting will be under auspices of the Scott Township Civic Club with state association leaders of the Forty-fifth Senatorial District committee speaking.

Advocating a fair consumers' rate and fair return to the utility companies, leaders spoke last night before Brentwood voters in Elroy Public School. Speakers were Harry Wohlwend and O. W. Heselbarth, of the district committee, and State Representative Matthew Dunn. A. P. Rodgers, president of the Voters' League of Brentwood, presided.

'HYMIE' TO GET NEW TRIAL

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—"Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, sentenced to life imprisonment as the "spot man" in the slaying of former Councilman William E. Potter, has been granted a new trial.

News of the action by the Third District Court of Appeals brought only a shrug and a smile from Hymie. He remarked:

"I have absolutely nothing to say."

The opinion of the Appellate Court, setting aside the verdict in Common Pleas Court in Cleveland, said:

Martin, who has served 10 months, will be returned from the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus to the county jail in Cleveland.

TROLLEY SPLITS SWITCH, AUTO WRECKED

Passengers Endangered by Frankstown Ave. Crash; Driver Taken to Hospital

Twenty passengers in a Frankstown avenue trolley were thrown from their seats when the car split a switch at Penn and Euclid avenues today, then struck an auto whose driver was injured, police reported.

Confusion reigned as the passengers were jolted into the aisles. One woman was reported injured.

The car, operated by James Cummings, was proceeding in Penn avenue. The rear truck turned into Euclid avenue, throwing the rear end of the car against the auto which was virtually demolished.

The injured driver of the auto was Charles A. Claus, 26, of 6910 Fifth avenue. He was rushed to Pittsburgh Hospital.

FIGHT PAY CUTS IN MT. LEBANON

A meeting of Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioners was thrown into disorder last night when Commissioner C. W. Scheck assailed a 10 per cent salary cut for all township employes as "outrageous," and declared that a further tax reduction could be enacted and township expenses be met without salary cutting.

Commissioner Scheck said he was ruled off the floor by Commissioner L. C. Clark, chairman, when he attempted to present figures to qualify his assertions. He said:

"The salary cutting of township officers and employes is outrageous. The tax rate for 1931 was 9½ mills and, although expenses were the highest in the history of the township, we had a surplus of over $8,000 at the end of the year.

"The levy for 1932 has been reduced one-half mill, but the property valuation was increased $1,500,000.

"In view of the increased property valuation, township expenses could be met with even an 8½ mill levy without reducing salaries. With a 10 percent salary reduction in effect, an 8 mill levy would cover township expenditures."

Wilkinsburg Bomb Scare Proves False

Two Negroes cleaning the basement of a vacant house in Wallace avenue, Wilkinsburg, yesterday found what they thought was a bomb and summoned police.

Chief James Harris and Motorcycle Patrolman William Daw hurried to the place, examined the "bomb" and found it to be a piece of telephone cable wrapped in a newspaper and with a wire extending from one end giving the appearance of a fuse.

GIRL DETECTIVE TRAPS SUSPECT

Cecelia Kraddock, of 311 Meade street, Wilkinsburg, received the plaudits of her friends today for her detective ability, demonstrated, police said, in the capture of a man alleged to have passed worthless checks.

John B. Phillips, formerly of Etna, was arrested in Akron, O., on Miss Kraddock's tip. At a hearing before Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, in Wilkinsburg, he was held for court for false pretense and forgery.

Miss Kraddock signed the information charging false pretense, while John Colbeck, of 2600 Carson street, acting for E. T. Risam of Bellefonte, Pa., filed the forgery charge.

Miss Kraddock said that she lent Phillips $30 and that he gave her a check to cover the amount. The check was returned by the bank, she said, marked "no account." Colbeck alleged that Phillips forged Risam's name to a check for $300.

Police Seize Stills And Rum on Hill

Capt. John Schnur and police from Center Avenue Station raided a garage in Upton street, near the Watt Street School, finding, Schnur reported, two washboiler stills in operation and a quantity of moonshine. Ned Wilkins, 42, Negro, of 2502 Wylie avenue, was arrested, charged with violation of the Snyder act.

Empty Pockets Only Obstacle In Spending Drive

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

The anti-hoarders are using George Washington as an example of patriotic liberality.

They point out that the prodigal George tossed a dollar across the Potomac.

They forget to mention that George's next stunt in athletic finances was to break all Colonial records for swimming the very same river.

We can't see why Mr. Hoover is sore against the Wall street shorts when those boys sure stopped the hoarding in 1929.

But the presidential ukase against misering has brought results. The pocketbooks are opening up and the moths and mice are seeing sunlight.

Of course, all of us haven't got the certified biscuits to spend. We dipped the hand in our pocket yesterday pursuant to the presidential fiat and have nothing to report but a sprained wrist.

Way Opened for Phila. To Support Stadtfeld

By MARK SHIELDS

Gov. Pinchot's action in promoting Superior Court Justice William B. Linn to the Supreme Bench, and naming Judge William M. BANQUET OPENS WASHINGTON FETE HERE

Career of First President Lauded as City Begins Bicentennial Celebration

Pittsburgh's official observance of the bicentennial celebration of the birth of George Washington, to continue throughout the country until Thanksgiving, opened with a banquet in William Penn Hotel last night, when speakers lauded the career of America's first President. The banquet, held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, civic and patriotic organizations, ended a day of festivities and celebrations begun early in the morning.

Speakers were Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, former Gov. John S. Fisher and Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute.

FISH ATTACKS REDS

Congressman Fish in his address denounced Communism, its activities in the United States, and ended with a survey of the Sino-Japanese situation in which he warned the United States not to take a too prominent part. He said:

"There is no immediate fear of Communism getting hold in the United States, but this must not be construed to mean that there is no danger in the future."

He criticized American bankers who made loans to Russia for the furtherance of the five-year-plan, declaring that if this plan is successful Russia will attempt to force its doctrines upon the world. He denounced the investigations made by Theodore Dreiser, writer, in coal fields characterizing him as a Communist.

APPEALS FOR PEACE

Of the Chinese situation he said:

"I disapprove the proposed boycott against the Japanese. America has no business to make China safe for the Chinese. Even though American missions are attacked, that gives us no reason for war with Japan. It is to be hoped that the State Department issue no more long-winded notes to Japan."

Washington's career, especially his activities in Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania, were lauded by the other speakers, who characterized him as a pioneer not only in location, but statesmanship and military leadership.

A crowd estimated at several thousand attended ceremonies in Syria Mosque, where Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant III of Washington, was the principal speaker. The meeting was under auspices of seven commanderies of Knights Templar.

COMMUNITY MEETINGS

Prof. Clarence C. Klein of Fifth Avenue High School spoke at a meeting in North Side Carnegie Hall. The meeting was featured by a motion picture, "Washington, the President."

The Washington Infantry, of Pittsburgh, had charge of a banquet in Memorial Hall, while exercises were held in Overbrook School under auspices of Overbrook patriotic bodies. The Arnold Allied Civic League presented a Washington birthday program in Ukranian Hall.

More than 100 persons attended a Washington birthday celebration sponsored by Albert G. Baker Post No. 86, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the headquarters, Mill and Steuben streets, West End, last night. Speakers were the Rev. Ira Freeman, pastor of Lorenz Avenue Baptist Church; Past Commander J. J. Madden and Commander Harry Thiel. The program was under direction of M. T. MacMuldrow.

Harbor Mines Block Red Munitions Ship

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—The German steamer Makedonia put into Constanza yesterday with 72 carloads of munitions, which were destined, authorities said, for Soviet Russia.

It was thought that the Makedonia stopped at Constanza on hearing reports that Odessa, Feodosia and other Russia harbors, including those on the Black Sea, were endangered by drifting mines laid by the Russians.

PINCHOT LAUDS WASHINGTON

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot, speaking at a celebration of the bi-centennial of the birth of George Washington in the new education building here, lauded the first President as the strongest character of which this nation can boast.

He said Pennsylvania has a special reason to be proud of Washington because the early history of the nation is indelibly a part of the early history of the state. He said:

"The Continental Congress met in Philadelphia, in Lancaster and in York. But long before that time the tall Virginian was a familiar figure in this colony. His campaigns against the French and Indians carried him through the wilderness of Southern and Western Pennsylvania. He knew both the Braddock road, which began at Fort Cumberland, and the Forbes road, which began at Bedford.

"After the Revolution he stayed overnight in Harrisburg, on his way to quell the Whisky Rebellion. He was the idol of Pennsylvanians, as he was the idol of the people of all the other colonies."

BELL GRILLED FOURTH DAY IN CONFESSION

Troopers Push Quiz of Bledsoe, Named as Ally in Slaying of J. F. Donohoe

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 23.—State police entered upon their fourth day of grilling Anthony W. (Tony) Bell, and two of the three men implicated in an alleged confession of the former County Detective to the murder of Constable Jack Donohoe, a crime for which he already has been tried and acquitted.

The quiz has gone on uninterrupted since Bell's return Friday night from Buffalo, N. Y., where he had been held on federal charges of extortion and impersonating an officer.

Published reports yesterday that counsel for Cosmo Stangoni would seek the suspect's release on habeas corpus proceedings were considered in official quarters as mere rumors. Stangoni, it was pointed out, has been unable to retain counsel or even talk to friends since his arrest Thursday. No official verification of his arrest has ever been made. State police have maintained strict silence about the whole affair and very little of an official nature has been learned from District Attorney Wade Newell's office here.

Said to be in custody as a suspect is R. C. Bledsoe, another former county detective. Unofficial reports of the quiz indicate that it is Bledsoe who is bearing the brunt of the grueling quiz, and it was rumored in official circles here today that he is gradually weakening under the steady stream of questions. He has admitted several things connecting him with the case, it is said.

Newell, declining to discuss the case in detail, admitted that he cannot hope to convict Bell's alleged accomplices on Bell's unsubstantiated word, and it is for this reason that his statements are being carefully checked.

WOLFE IN RACE FOR ASSEMBLY

Kivie Wolfe, of 5618 Margaretta street, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as member of the Legislature from the Fourth District, comprising the Seventh, Eighth and Eleventh wards.

He stated he would work, if elected, for repeal of the blue laws, regulation of public utilities to insure fair rates, abolition of excessive tax exemption, reforms in the election laws, permanent registration, unemployment insurance, mothers' and old age pensions, state soldiers' bonus and a return of a portion of the gasoline tax to its original source.

Wolfe was educated in the public schools, University of Pittsburgh and Pittsburgh Law School.

GUNMEN IN PARK ROB COUPLES IN AUTOS

3 More Holdups Staged in Schenley's 'Honeymoon Circle;' Bandit's Slug Man

Three more young women and their escorts were threatened as four gunmen conducted another series of holdups in Schenley Park's "Honeymoon Circle" last night and early today, according to police.

The robberies swelled the total to more than a dozen similar crimes in city parks within the past 10 days.

TAKE CASH, WATCH

From James McElroy, 3607 Coleman street, the bandits took $130 cash and a $35 wrist watch, police said. His unidentified girl companion was not molested.

Later they opened the doors of the machine of Jack Jabo, 1435 Jancey street, threatened him and his companion and escaped with $8, he told Oakland police.

Oscar Kleckner, of 358 Lawn street, and his companion, unidentified, were held up, and Kleckner told police he turned over $2.50 and a check for $200 to the bandits.

The women were not robbed.

SLUGGED BY BANDITS

Salzo Pisanti, of 32 Carver street, was in West Penn Hospital with a probable skull fracture suffered when he was slugged by two Negroes, who robbed him of $5 in the rear of his home. The victim could give no description of the pair.

Another victim of two Negroes, Harry Torrance, was severely beaten near his home, 6827 Kelly street, and robbed of $36 and a watch valued at $60. Torrance suffered a cut over the left eye.

When two armed men entered the grocery of M. Rosenthal, at 216 Vine street, and ordered Mrs. Edith Rosenthal and her son, Isadore, 8, to hold up their hands, the boy pleaded:

"Don't shoot my mama or me."

Brushing past Mrs. Rosenthal, one of the men opened the cash register and looted it of $12. The bandits backed out of the store and escaped in an automobile.

Clothing valued at $525 was stolen last night from the automobile of E. J. Elwood, of 90 North Euclid avenue, Bellevue, while it was parked in front of Mercy Hospital.

HELD CAPTIVE, SAYS SUSPECT

Charging he was held captive in the Hill district for a week and robbed of $700, a gold watch and clothes, Andrew Gibbons, 38, of Columbia, Pa., today was held at Central Police Station for further investigation in the death of a man believed to be William Burko.

Burko was found in Frank Quarti's confectionery store, 1222 Clark street, Saturday. Five men have been turned over to the Coroner's office in connection with the death.

Gibbons was arrested by Turtle Creek police, with James Coffey, 28, 3 Sathem way, and Robert Jenkins, 26, 2527 Fifth avenue, both Negroes, after police reported he had boasted of knowing about Burko's death. The latter two were held with Gibbons. Until recently Gibbons lived in Columbia where he worked in a mill.

2 JUDGES GET PROMOTION

Three Superior Court judges will be up for election. Judges Robert Gawthrop, Stadtfeld and Parker will be the sitting candidates. The organization slate probably will be redrafted now to carry the names of James, Gawthrop and Stadtfeld, with Judge Parker left to shift for himself. The Philadelphia organization and the State Committee have no reason to back a Pinchot appointee, and as between Stadtfeld and Parker they probably will jettison the most recent selection.

SUPPORT FOR STADTFELD

This may not meet universal political approval. Pinchot would be expected to support Parker, and County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern might also have a friendly feeling toward him, but McGovern is principally interested in Stadtfeld.

Furthermore, Judge Stadtfeld has the advantage of support from County Chairman William D. Mansfield, who has told state leaders he would be "uninterested" in the slate unless Stadtfeld was given a place.

In a statement last week Gov. Pinchot indicated he was not going into any rugged statewide fight this year—on behalf of any candidates, which would make dubious the success of Judge Parker.

As a further development in the expectancy that Stadtfeld will be slated, it is probable E. R. Crawford, of McKeesport, will accept a place on the delegate-at-large slate to the Republican national convention. Crawford had declined the honor because of the slight to Stadtfeld and the refusal of the state organization and Philadelphia to give this county preference in the selection of an auditor general. He is expected to be reconciled to the latter slight, as it appears assured Senator Frank Baldwin, of Potter County, will remain on the slate for Auditor General.

Mutineers in Irons As Steamer Docks

SANTOS, Brazil, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—The German-owned steamer Sierra Cordoba arrived here yesterday with a number of the crew and several passengers in irons as the result of a mutiny on the high seas. The commander, who turned the prisoners over to the Santos authorities, said the movement was of an "extremist" nature.

'INSULT' OUSTS HITLER'S AIDE

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Adolph Hitler's right-hand man, Joseph Goebbels, was excluded from the Reichstag today, after a tumultuous session, for "a serious insult to the head of the state."

Bedlam broke loose when Goebbels in the first speech of the session declared President Von Hindenburg was supported by "superannuated excellencies from the stone age," and by the Social Democrats, "the party of deserters."

The members almost came to blows at this point.

MAX TO WORK ON DODGER WEAKNESS

AS MANAGER OF the Brooklyn club, Max Carey will have a fertile field in which to teach his own specialty, the art of baserunning, inasmuch as the Dodgers have been notorious for their weaknesses on the paths, and call for improvement in that department more than in any other. That makes Carey look like the right man in the right place, for if Max can make his charges perk up on the sacks there is no good reason why the club should not show up in other branches sufficiently well to hold a place among the pennant contenders practically all the distance.

Max Carey

That Carey realizes what the Dodgers need most is evidenced by his announcement of training plans, in which he says that baserunning drills will be an important part of his daily training program. He adds that the drills are going to be long ones, too, that he is going to tell the Dodgers what he wants them to look for and do when they get on the runways, and that he will outline for them situations in which they will have to use their own judgment.

"TWO BASERUNNERS WORKING together can throw a rival club up in the air," Carey said. "When Casey Stengel and I were on the Pittsburgh club we worked together and helped each other. I did my best baserunning when Stengel was on the club. I'd be on second and Casey on first and we'd swap signs. When we exchanged a certain gesture I'd race to third and he'd move up to second.

"We also had signs when I was on third base and Stengel on first. Sometimes I'd make a bluff at going home and Stengel would go down to second. Other times we'd both try to advance. The opposition never knew what to expect. That's the kind of baserunning tactics I'm going to try to revive among the Brooklyn players. Certain players must master teamwork on the bases. Besides, they will find a sliding pit at the park, and they will have to use that every day, too. Sliding is an important part of baserunning."

THE DEAL TO send Joe Boley to Cleveland is off for good. The veteran shortstop has been ordered to report at the training grounds of the A's in Fort Myers, Fla., and Connie Mack declares he positively will not be sold or traded.

When Commissioner Landis refused to sanction the sale because there was an option clause in the agreement, another deal was attempted in which Cleveland asked a lower price, but the Macks refused and the whole thing was canceled.

THE STAGING OF a big professional basketball game at Motor Square Garden between the Rosenblum Celtics and the Renaissance Negro five of New York is now a certainty, and all that remains is the finding of a date that will be acceptable to the two teams and the Garden management and that will not conflict with the elimination series of the W. P. I. A. L. Thursday, March 3, has been set tentatively, but the Rosers have a game scheduled elsewhere for that night and must arrange for a shift, if possible. The Rosenblum and Renaissance fives are rated the best two teams in the country.

Joe Wood

SMOKY JOE WOOD, once famous major league pitcher, is starting another season as head baseball coach at Yale, and is now working out with the slab staff trying to impart to the hurlers some of the knowledge and skill that made him a big-show standout in his heyday.

Until Bob Grove turned in a mark of .886 last year with 31 victories against four defeats, Wood held the distinction of having made the highest pitching percentage on record in the American League for more than 20 games. In 1912 he won 34 games and lost five for a percentage of .872, and tossed it off by winning three out of four from the Giants in the world series, one of his victories coming in the final game, in which Fred Snodgrass made his memorable $70,000 muff.

BEFORE LEAVING PITTSBURGH with Catcher George Susce recently to join the Tigers, Coach Jewel Ens said he shared the view of President Frank Navin and Manager Bucky Harris that one of the best bets for the strengthening of the Detroit club this year is Billy Rhiel, native son of Youngstown, O., who was purchased from Portland in the Pacific Coast League.

Rhiel was up with the Dodgers in 1927 and again in 1929, but baseball men doubt that he was given a fair trial, for as soon as he began to play regularly for Portland he showed uncommon batting ability, hitting .348 in 1930 and .335 in 1931.

IN 164 GAMES last year, Rhiel made 229 hits and scored 127 runs, leading the Coast League in doubles, with 53. He also had eight triples and seven home runs to his credit. Billy is one of the few players holding the distinction of having made a triple play unassisted. He did it on September 21, 1930, playing second base for Portland against Seattle. The Youngstown man played both infield and outfield positions for the Beavers, but it is the intention of Manager Harris to assign him permanently to center field. His release is said to have cost $25,000, but the Tiger management is confident he will prove a bargain.

MERCER COUNTY FOLK share with the alumni and student body of Brown University the gratification born of the knowledge that D. O. (Tuss) McLaughry is starting out on another long-term contract as head football coach on top of his six highly satisfactory years at the Providence institution.

Tuss is a graduate of Sharon High School and of Westminster College. A great fullback in his scholastic and collegiate days, McLaughry chose to attend Westminster when he conveniently could have enrolled at one of several larger schools that would have welcomed him. His father is Judge James A. McLaughry, of the Mercer County Court.

BOSTON AND PROVIDENCE newspapers in recent issues indicate the Brown boosters were especially anxious to see McLaughry signed to a long-term document owing to the activities of Princeton people who were reported seeking him to coach the Tigers. That Tuss' new contract is for five or more years is the surmise of his home friends.

McLaughry made a reputation at Amherst before he moved to Brown. Apparently he has a fine ideal which he keeps before him as he trains young men on the football field. Indeed, an analysis of his character reveals many of the qualities of the lamented Knute Rockne, Arthur Markey writes in the Providence "News-Tribune."

Here is the highest type of man that could be found to teach youngsters so important a game. He watches over his boys like a fond father. If a player is hurt so that permanent injury might result from further play, McLaughry prefers to sacrifice football victories. When a coach is idolized by his players as McLaughry has been there is something more to the man than the mere ability to impart football knowledge.

Tuss McLaughry

WALTER E. OKESON, football officials' commissioner, who was in Pittsburgh the other day, is an admirer of McLaughry, whom he pronounces a great sportsman. Gil Dobie, veteran Cornell mentor, said that of all the coaches he has known, McLaughry has made more friends than any other he could mention.

Among the Sharon friends of Tuss who are elated over his success is the man who as a boy starred with him in high school and at college. Attorney Edward V. (Ted) Buckley was Tuss' quarterback in hot battles with Pitt, Carnegie Tech and other foes. Buckley is now one of Mercer County's most prominent barristers.

SCHOOL CROWNS AT STAKE

COLLER TO LEAD REAR GUARD WESTWARD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Eight members of the Pirate family, the nucleus of the second squad, are slated to leave Pittsburgh tonight at 10:30 over the Pennsylvania Railroad on the long journey to the Paso Robles training camp of the club. The rear guard, which will be increased en route, is scheduled to reach the California drill grounds Saturday afternoon. The first squad already is in action at Paso Robles.

Lawrence B. Coller, new business manager of the Buccos, will have charge of the second squad. Lawrence will receive all the help necessary from Scout Bill Hinchman, who came over from his Columbus home for a conference with Buccaneer officials before embarking with the players.

SIX PLAYERS LEAVE

The six players booked for the jaunt out of Pittsburgh are Ervin Brame, pitcher; Bill Swift, pitcher, and Floyd Young, infielder, and Adam Comorosky, Augustin Dunas and Dave Barbee, outfielders. Swift has accepted terms and is due here today.

Brame is an added feature to the departure performance. The tall Kentuckian came to town yesterday. Ervin had been prominent among the holdouts, but it did not require much time to get the dissenter's name on a contract.

Brame's 1931 work was far from satisfactory, but the big right-hander was ill during a part of the season. He thinks he is in for a big year on the slab and, of course, the fans are expecting a lot from Ervin at the plate. He is the club's leading pinch-hitter and a batsman who is feared by most of the league's pitchers.

TWO NEWCOMERS

The two newcomers, Young and Barbee, are promising. The first was a star on the Pirates' Wichita farm last summer. Floyd is capable of playing both the infield and outfield.

Barbee holds plenty of appeal, owing to his home-run record in the Pacific Coast League. The big righthand hitter smacked out no less than 47 homers for Hollywood in 1931 and he was only six below this number the previous year.

The Coast League socker probably will find it hard to break into the Pirate outfield first-stringers, yet, on the other hand, there was a crying need last year of a right-hand batter who really can wallop the ball. Barbee drove the sphere over some faraway fences.

KREMER, SUHR SIGNED

PASO ROBLES, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—The Pittsburgh Pirates opened spring training here yesterday with a workout and George Gibson, new manager, said two daily sessions will be held at the training park.

Remy Kremer, pitcher, and Gus Suhr, first baseman, having adjusted their salary disputes with the club, reported.

A room was reserved for Larry French, pitcher, although he is reported in some quarters as a holdout. Nothing has been heard from Swetonic and Meine, hurlers, who are reported holding out for higher salaries.

The squad ran around the field and played catch; shagged grounders and wound up with medicine ball and leap frog.

M'EWAN COLLAPSES

Gibson gave considerable attention to Charley Woods, pitcher, and Bill Brenzel, catcher. Woods, Pirate sensation late in 1930, slumped last season. Brenzel was obtained last year from the San Francisco Missions for a reported price of $50,000, but was left with the Coast League club for further seasoning. Gibson described him today as "a second Mickey Cochrane."

The first misfortune cropped out when Floyd McEwan, rookie catcher, collapsed back of second base while chasing flies. It was pronounced a mild case of sunstroke.

McEwan, whose home is in Corinth, Miss., was recommended by Pitcher Ervin Brame, who was signed in Pittsburgh yesterday.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: WASHINGTON'S BI-CENTENARY—The year 46 B. C. had 14 months, two supernumerary months having been added by Julius Caesar to initiate the Julian Calendar Reform. When George Washington was born the date was February 11, 1731, and England and its colonies still were observing the old Julian calendar, in which the year began not on January 1 but on March 25. The Father of our Country was 20 years old (1751) when the English Parliament finally adopted the Gregorian calendar, by clipping 11 days off September, 1752. In addition, the beginning of the year was advanced to January 1. It is an error to make the calendar reform retroactive by celebrating Washington's Birthday on February 22, instead of 11 days earlier. And the same wrong application of chronological retroactivity is made in the celebration of Washington's Bi-Centenary in 1932, instead of 1931. THE SHORT CIRCUIT BEETLE—The Short Circuit Beetle (Latin name Scobicia Declivis) is so called because of its habit of boring numerous holes in the aerial lead telephone cables. Short circuit then is caused by moisture entering the cable. The activity of the beetle entails great expense and trouble to the telephone companies.

GROVE, RUBE HOLDOUTS

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 23.—Robert Moses Grove and George (Rube) Walberg, southpaw stars of the Philadelphia Athletics have joined the holdout ranks.

Manager Connie Mack acknowledged that the hurlers had rejected terms offered them, and labeled them "smart fellows, but big fools for not signing." Grove is said to be demanding $35,000, and Walberg is reported asking $15,000.

Both pitchers maintained discreet silence yesterday afternoon. They remained in town when the first detachment of players took the bus to Terry Field for practice.

Baseball Notes

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Manager Max Carey, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, looked over his batterymen for the first time yesterday as his pitchers and catchers went through limbering-up exercises. Shortstop Glenn Wright and First Baseman Del Bissonette shared in the drill.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Henry Johnson, fast-ball pitcher for the New York Yankees, underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis at his home in Bradentown, near here, last night.

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—An hour after they arrived from St. Louis 20 batterymen of the St. Louis Cardinals club were in uniforms and going through their first spring training practice, under the guidance of Manager Charles B. Street, the players engaged in lobbing the ball back and forth, pairing up pupils and taking turns around the field.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—A routine workout that lasted three hours left the New York Giants rookies lame and a trifle bothered yesterday. The practice was devoted to shagging of flies and fielding of bunts, as well as the customary tramping around the ball park.

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Efforts of Owner Clark Griffith to bring Pitcher Fred Marberry and Catcher Roy Spencer into the fold topped the schedule of the Washington Senators, who opened training here yesterday. They are the only two here who have not signed on the dotted line. Bob Burke, hurler, is another still outside.

RICHARDSON SPRINGS, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Charles Gehringer, second base hero of the Detroit Tigers, reported to his mates in the Tiger conditioning camp yesterday that he had "let his arm out" on some long throws without painful results. Trainer Danny Carroll supported his statement with the optimistic prediction that the Tiger star probably won't have arm trouble this season.

MOUNTAINEERS BOW

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Creighton scored over West Virginia University, 36 to 31, in a fiercely contested basketball game last night, 27 to 26. The West Virginia freshmen downed Potomac State in a preliminary game, 31 to 28. The lineup:

Creighton	G	F	P	West Virginia	G	F	P

Princeton Silent On Crisler as Grid Coach

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 23.—If H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, athletic director of the University of Minnesota, is named head football coach at Princeton, it will mark a departure from the time-honored Tiger policy of alumni coaching.

Despite Crisler's statement of a direct proposal from President John Grier Hibben, Princeton authorities maintained a non-committal attitude.

"The matter is in the hands of the board of athletic control," said President Hibben, "and any statement must come from them. I believe, however, that they will have something to say in a few days."

Told that news dispatches from Minneapolis quoted Crisler as saying he had decided to accept the job as coach at Princeton, Dr. Hibben said:

"I don't know anything about that, but I am very happy to hear it if it is so."

BOXING BILL SIGNED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—A bill designed to make possible a 15-round heavyweight boxing championship match in Illinois which may or may not be held, yesterday became a law with the signature of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. Only 10-round matches heretofore have been permitted.

GROUP LEADERS TO DETERMINE SUPREMACY

By JULIUS LEVIN

The Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League will wind up its regular basketball season tonight when championship winners will be determined in several sections.

Moe Rubenstein

The championship of Section III will be at stake in New Castle when the Brideneaugh passers engage Butler High. The two teams are deadlocked for first place with eight victories and one defeat. Moe Rubenstein is the star of the New Castle team. In the first meeting between the schools, New Castle scored a 16-14 victory.

The Ambridge-Aliquippa battle at Aliquippa will determine the Section IV representative in the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations, which get under way Friday. Nate Lippe's Aliquippa team holds a one-game advantage over Moe Rubenstein's quintet, and if the former wins tonight, it will assure itself of a place in the eliminations.

However, if Ambridge wins the decision, a post-season game will be necessary to determine the Section IV championship. Aliquippa already holds a 19-18 victory over the Rubenstein machine.

THREE-WAY TIE LIKELY

There is a possibility of a three-way deadlock in Section VIII with Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin as the teams involved. Braddock is setting the pace at present, but if Jock Rosenberg's Rankin team should upset the dope by defeating Ham Hudson's pacesetters tonight, all three teams will be tied. Rankin upset Scott last week and may repeat the dose against Braddock. A victory for Braddock will send Hudson's quintet into the eliminations.

Uniontown must defeat Connellsville tonight at Connellsville to sew up the Section X title. If Latrobe and Connellsville win, this race also will end in a three-way deadlock.

The Sewickley Township-Bellevernon clash will determine the winner of the Section XII championship. The teams are tied with 10 victories in 11 league starts. Canonsburg should have no trouble defeating Trinity to sew up the Section XV crown.

SCHENLEY MAY CINCH TITLE

With Allegheny crowned champion in Section II of the City League, Schenley will have an opportunity to grab the Section I pennant this afternoon when South is met at Schenley. Fifth Avenue plays at Westinghouse and Allderdice at Peabody in other Section I frays.

South Hills entertains Allegheny Vocational, Carrick is host to Oliver, and Langley engages Perry in Section II games.

New Kensington High last night captured the titular laurels in Section I of the W. P. I. A. L., when it defeated Har-Brack, 20 to 18. Leetsdale won the Section II crown by defeating Ben Avon, 20 to 15.

Pittsburgh is to have a big outdoor boxing arena in Oakland this summer. It will be scaled to seat upwards of 20,000 fans and will be ready about May 1. Eddie Kapphan, who has broken into the promotion game here with bouts in his Addison street arena this winter, will build the mammoth plant, he announced today.

Plans have been drawn by the P. E. Peoples Company and ground will be broken within a month. The structure will be of steel, with wooden seats, and will be erected on a piece of property owned by Kapphan.

Kapphan will operate at popular prices, the same to be determined by conditions at the time.

MAZER ALSO IN FIELD

Another outdoor arena is being planned by Joe Mazer, Motor Square Garden promoter. He expects to be able to announce the details at an early date. The Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock, will continue to operate, and the Hickey Park arena, in Millvale, also will be available.

It is possible that one of these arenas will switch over to the promotion of wrestling if the grappling sport gets off to a good start in the revival which begins Thursday night at Motor Square Garden.

Between Rounds

Johnny Datto, Filipino featherweight, of Cleveland, boxes Freddie Miller, of Cincinnati, in the semi-final to the Battling Battalino-Billy Shaw bout in St. Louis tomorrow night. Lou Terry meets Wesley Palmer and Jackie Purvis engages Roy Mitchell in other 10-rounders.

The 111th Field Artillery Veterans' Association will sponsor the tri-state amateur boxing championships at the Moose Temple March 4-5.

Tony Constantino, Pittsburgh Lawson welterweight, will turn professional on the Kapphan Arena card headed by Willie Davies and Jackie Wilson, Friday night, meeting Sharkey Lesko, of McKeesport.

Johnny Cooper, Negro welterweight, of Cincinnati, who has fought 10 to a draw with Young Rodel at Motor Square Garden, is in shape and anxious for battles. Among the men he fought before coming here were Nordi Smith, Walcott Lansford, Chink George and Harry Williams, when the last-named was a welterweight. Promoters may reach him at the Norville Hotel.

I. K. S. to Stage Indoor Track Meet

An indoor track meet, the first of its kind to be held in Pittsburgh and vicinity in many a year, will be staged March 9 at the Irene Kaufman Settlement. It is expected that many district colleges and high schools will enter their athletes.

The meet will consist of the following events:

Campbell Again Delays Speed Test

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP.)—Unfavorable weather and beach conditions combined today to prevent Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, from making an attempt to break his own world automobile speed record of 245 miles an hour.

Rain, which began falling last night, continued and the visibility was poor. In addition, a strong northeast wind whipped across the 12-mile course at such a velocity as to make trials impossible, even had the weather been clear.

HERRERA BOUT IS RAZZED

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Tony Herrera, Mexican lightweight, and Denver Mickey Cohen put on a good number in the 10-round windup at Motor Square Garden last night. It was too good—and the fans wound up razzing the pair and walking out in groups during the closing rounds.

It was the second meeting of the men within 11 days. They fought a 12-rounder in Kansas City, a week ago last Thursday, with Tony winning. Last night, Cohen won the first round and thereafter it was a song and dance for Tony, who hit Mickey with everything but the gate receipts—but not too hard, which was what caused the crowd to become suscicious.

CROWD RAZZES 'EM

Cohen ate so many left jabs that he must feel like a leather factory today. But left jabs never knocked out Cock Robin, and they didn't do much more than redden the face of Denver Mickey, who is a tough guy and can take it until the cows are driven home. And as for our hero Tony's right, he was throwing it, not snapping it home as is his wont when he is in there trying to catch an early train back to Chicago.

Anyway, there was a lot of action and the fans had the satisfaction of letting the boys know that they expected them to repeat in Scranton or East Lynne next week. In one of the latter rounds, Referee Red Robinson told Tony to speed up and put something on his punches if he expected to be paid off. The fight didn't do Tony any good with the local fans, who always have liked him and have been good to him. They turned out for him last night to the extent of the largest crowd in weeks at a local show.

MIXUP COSTS SALERNO KAYO

The officials jammed up the two feature preliminaries in a most glaring manner. Guy Salerno, of Los Angeles, 161, Jack Perry's middleweight, coming back after a defeat by George Courtney in the Moose Temple last Wednesday night, plastered game and tough Jimmy Taylor, of Cleveland, 160½, throughout six rounds and part of the seventh in the semi-final and finally floored him with a right to the jaw followed by a left as he was falling, and, instead of counting out the stricken boxer, Referee Jack Henderson heeded a towel thrown from Taylor's corner and stopped at the toll of five and picked up Jimmy and helped him to his corner, depriving Salerno of a clean-cut and well-earned knockout victory and causing the finish to be announced as a "technical" knockout. It wasn't an official knockout because the count, once started, was not continued up to 10. It was a bad mess.

Salerno looked good in victory and Taylor won the fans with his pluck in the face of a bad beating.

SALA HANDED WIN

Sailor Matty, of Homestead, 156, outfought Lee Sala, of Donora, 158, all of the way in the six-round second bout, only to have the judges disagree and Referee Red Robinson's decision go in favor of his opponent, to the accompaniment of expressions of the crowd's displeasure. Judge Frank Brown voted for Matty and Judge Jock Simco for Sala.

Joe Todd, of Donora, 138½ pounds, substituting on short notice, was knocked out in the third round of the opener by Bobby Wilson, Negro, of the East End, 143, brother of Jackie Wilson.

Norman Borland and Tommy Grant were the timers and Harry Klaas was the announcer.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

GAMES TONIGHT

Detroit at Montreal Canadiens.
Toronto at N. Y. Americans.
N. Y. Rangers at Boston.

By CARL SHATTO

If the Polish Olympic hockey team, which is to meet the Pittsburgh Collegians at Duquesne Garden Saturday night, decides to remain in Pittsburgh and play a second game with the local amateurs immediately after the close of the International Hockey League season, the chances are excellent that it can do so without running into a counter attraction in the form of the International loop's annual title playoffs.

The possibility of the Poles remaining here after Saturday is very remote, but, at that, it is just about as good as the Yellow Jackets' chances of easing into an International League money berth before the campaign's close.

TASK APPEARS HOPELESS

A glance at the league standings, mixed with a little figure juggling, sheds some considerable light on the hockey situation, insofar as Pittsburgh is concerned. In the event that Detroit and London win their games tonight, which is not unlikely in that both are consistent winners on home ice, all the Jackets will have to do is win 10 of their remaining 12 games to capture a money berth. This answer is provisional, of course, but it is not likely to be in error, in that it is based on the assumption that Windsor, London and Detroit will get only an even break in their remaining games.

In the event that London, Detroit and Windsor turn in more victories than defeats, the local warriors could win 10 of 12 games and still be left out in the cold.

Coach Charley Reid and his skaters are well acquainted with the situation, but despondency is not apparent as they go about the business of preparing for their game with the Syracuse Stars here Thursday night. Their attitude is that while there is life there is hope, and they don't propose to be counted out until the last fraction of a mathematical chance is erased.

POLES HERE SATURDAY

But to get back to the Poles and their game here Saturday—the visitors should rule strong favorites for reasons other than the fact that they are amateur champions of Europe. The squad is in charge of Dr. Stanislaw Polakiewicz, and in the lineup are, among others, Jan Walozak, Alex Kowalski, Casimir Sokolowski, Joe Stogowski, Wladislaw Ludwiczak, Czeslaw Jablonowski, Stanley Marchewcyzak and Casimir Materski. These are names not to be taken lightly in hockey—or any other sport.

Pitt, Tech and Duquesne all are to have representation in the Collegians' lineup, and Director Qualthrough is prescribing plenty of practice in getting the locals ready for the fray.

TITANS WHIP GENEVA, 37-19

GAMES TONIGHT

Glenville vs. Bethany, at Bethany.
Wash-Jeff vs. Villa Nova, at Philadelphia.

By JESS CARVER

Westminster missed doubling the score on Geneva in their tri-state conference basketball game at Beaver Falls last night by a single point. The Titans, playing sterling ball, raced away to a big lead and walloped the Covenanters, 37-19.

The victory stamped the Titans as one of the best teams that ever has been developed in this section, and put them on at least an even, if not higher plane than the unbeaten Dukes.

BROWNLEE SETS PACE

Led by Harry (Bud) Brownlee, veteran and accomplished center, the Westminster forces displayed altogether too much class and all-round ability for Geneva. They led 19-2 at one time in the first half.

Cliff Aultman sank the first basket of the ball game to give Geneva a lead of 2-0, but after that, the Covenanters might as well have been in Oskosh as in the fine new Beaver Falls High School gymnasium, where last night's contest was played.

In the second half, the Titans improved on their status, held their advantage—more than held it. If Brownlee wasn't scoring, Kocheran was, or Rice. Geneva outscored the Titans in the second 20 minutes, but it did 'em little good, as they were unable to cut down Westminster's tremendous advantage piled up in the first period.

Westminster, as a result of its fine triumph, can just about lay claim to the district title, as well as the conference crown. It will take a mighty swell ball club to lower the colors of Johnny Lawther's Titans now; indeed Duquesne's Dukes appear to be the only team within yellin' distance of the city that would have a chance.

Tonight's program is light. Bethany meets the tough Glenville Teachers, who lost their first game in two years Saturday night to West Virginia Wesleyan, at Bethany, and Wash-Jeff continues its short eastern jaunt by meeting formidable Villanova in Philadelphia.

CHANGES MADE IN MAT CARD

Charley Reinecke, Pittsburgh's newest wrestling promoter, goes on record as a sponsor of the mat sport who knows what he wants when he wants it, and, as a result, two changes have been made in his opening card at Motor Square Garden, Thursday night. Reinecke demanded the changes on the ground that the schedule of bouts arranged for him by his matchmaker, Ray Fabiani, did not come up to his expectations, the men being not properly matched, in his opinion.

Strangler Lewis, former world heavyweight champion, remains in the main bout, against John Maxos, and Ray Steele meets Frank Spear in the semi-final. The changes are in the preliminaries, where Earl McCready opposes Nino Darnaldi, who takes the place of Benny Ginsberg, and Koli Kwarini supplants Babe Caddock as the opponent of George Kotsonaros.

Lewis is doing a comeback and is keeping almost as busy as Jim Londos, the present champion. He meets Ray Steele in Boston tomorrow night, catches a midnight train for Pittsburgh and leaves here immediately after his local engagement to take on Jim McMillin in Philadelphia on Friday.

E. UTTERBACH WINS, THREE RECORDS FALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Three world records were shattered, another equaled twice and two meet records broken last night in a general outburst of brilliant performances in the National A. A. U. indoor track and field championships.

Joe McCluskey, of Fordham, romped to victory in the two-mile steeplechase in 9 minutes 46 2-5 seconds, and Mike Pecora, of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., stepped the mile walk in 6 minutes 27 1-5 seconds.

McCluskey dislodged the record set by the Finnish star, Elno Purje, at 9:55 2-5 in 1929. Pecora broke the 20-year-old mark of 6:28.

Young Edison, Business Man, Asks Questions

—By B. C. FORBES—

Mr. Forbes

WHEN EDISON was a young man his business methods were notoriously lax. His total accountancy system for years consisted of two long spikes. All bills he put on one spike. When he paid a bill, it was transferred to the other spike, and the transferring wasn't always done very promptly. Edison was more interested in accomplishing things than in promptly paying his bills.

While none of Edison's sons promises to rival his father in the world of invention, one son, Charles, is regarded as an unusually capable, aggressive, enterprising businessman. It is he who now heads the Edison enterprises. He is 41.

One Edison employe writes this column:

"The attached message which I have received from my boss is so inspiring and has filled me with so much hope during these otherwise gloomy days, that I thought perhaps you would be interested in reading it."

THE FRONTISPIECE of the message is a bucking broncho, ridden by a cowboy who is shouting: E-e-e-e-e yah! Under the title "Ride 'Em Cowboy" President Charles Edison vigorously discourses on 1932. This extract gives you the spirit of the message—and the spirit of young Edison:

"Nineteen hundred and thirty-two is a year of challenge and opportunity. But what are you going to get out of it? If you are made of sterner stuff, if this vanished prosperity, which has caused so much weeping, has not made flabby your muscles and your character, if you will substitute self-reliance and individualism for your belief in Santa Claus, and, like the pioneers who forged our nation, turn your back on the smug comforts of security, you, like them, will build new empires in every realm of thought and action. Nineteen hundred and thirty-two is a year of opportunity for you! It is a year of tremendous forces in action! New leaders will be bred. You need not only just save yourself—you can build."

I HAVE JUST been reading a speech made by the late Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific Railroad, in 1924, when things were none too rosy. Indeed, many were then convinced that the country was going to the dogs. Mr. Elliott offered this doggerel, which is even more appropriate today than it was then:

My grandpa notes world's worn cogs
His granddad, in his house of logs,
Swore things were going to the dogs.
His dad, among the Flemish bogs,
Vowed things were going to the dogs.
The caveman, in his queer skin togs,
Said things were going to the dogs.
But this is what I wish to state—
The dogs have had an awful wait!

"We are not going to the dogs, and I predict that the next 25, 50 and 75 years will be the most wonderful period of the world and the most glorious in the progress and history of the United States."

An automobile sales manager staged a sales contest. The first prize-winner, a backwoods Pennsylvania Dutchman, was invited to a celebration dinner in New York. After many pep speeches, the grand climax was to be an inspiring declaration by the prize-winner concerning the big things he was going to do for the company when he returned to the firing line. His speech follows:

"Mr. Sales Manager, you are fine feller. I am sorry to disappoint you. But since I came here to New York I find out there is a big panic in this country and I'm afraid you can't count of me to do nothing more."

Big Tire Companies Reduce Prices 10%

AKRON, O., Feb. 23.—Goodrich, Firestone, General and Goodyear have cut first-line tire prices to large commercial accounts 10 per cent. Retail prices are unchanged.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—In a letter to the independent tire dealers of the country, F. A. Seiberling, president of the Seiberling Rubber Company, criticises tire manufacturing companies for selling their products to large oil companies at or below the cost of these products to other dealers. Such sales, he holds, threaten to take from the independent dealers a large part of their legitimate business.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 23.—The market was not unchanged to ½ penny higher, opened ½ to ¾ penny, and at 1:20 p. m. was ½ penny higher.

EARLY COTTON LOSSES CUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Cotton opened barely steady today at a decline of 8 to 10 points on southern and commission house selling, promoted by easy cables. May sold at 7.02 cents.

There was considerable March liquidation probably in anticipation of notices tomorrow, and the initial offerings sent prices off to 6.99 cents for May and 7.37 cents for October or about 11 to 14 points below Saturday's closing quotations. Offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying on the decline, however, and the market stiffened up a few points with prices holding fairly steady at net declines of 3 to 6 points at the end of the first half hour.

Stock Exchange Topics

Speculators Now Turning Attention Towards Commodity Marts

Commodity markets are coming in for a greater measure of attention in speculative quarters. Presumably some traders with bullish leanings are recalling to mind the fact that the turn out of the post-war depression was signalized by an abrupt reversal of trend in commodities under the leadership of cotton. The southern staple heralded better things in business and the share market with a spectacular rise which marked the closing months of 1921, current quiet but persistent strength in that direction, is perhaps causing some observers to wonder if history will repeat. Cotton sold as low as 5½ cents a pound early in October last year, and is now hovering around the 7-cent level, with exports due of course largely to Far Eastern takings, running nearly 800,000 bales ahead of last year.

A total of 1,911 important corporations in the United States either cut or omitted dividend payments during the past year, according to a survey made by the New York News Bureau. These changes resulted in a loss of income to shareholders approximating $672,804,000 during the period. Of the total adjustments made considerably more than half, or 1,087 changes, resulted in complete omission, while the remainder, 827 companies, cut their rates. March and December stood out as the record months for omissions, a total of 131 corporations having reached decision on discontinuance of payments in each of those months. Reductions also were heaviest in volume in the same months, reaching a total of 104 in March and 115 in December.

Recognized as the principal source of supply for borrowers of stock to be used as delivery against short commitments on a large scale, investment trusts are naturally the center of a good deal of conjecture in consequence of most recent developments. What the financial community is desirous of knowing is whether any effort will be made to curtail the lending activities of these organizations, which under present conditions must provide a welcome source of income. And strangely enough rumor was current that something along that line might be anticipated, though, whether such action would receive undue publicity is widely doubted.

Wall street is looking for announcements from Washington regarding additional plans for improving conditions in this country. Many argue that one of the natural steps in the near future would be in connection with influencing an advance in commodity prices. Some interests believe that higher grain prices are probable in view of the comparatively open winter. Such an advance could have considerable sentimental effect on the stock market, because it is realized that the financial condition of the agriculturalist is important to the entire country, and anything which will increase the value of his crops would have a good influence on general business in the long run.

One commission house points out that on the basis of 5 for American Woolen common, 27 for the preferred, and par for the bonds of the company, the balance sheet as of December 31, last, showed 85 cents in cash and $2.38 in net working capital for each dollar of market appraisal. The company operated at a loss last year and does not appear to be earning anything at present, according to this commission house. But the financial position is secure, as indicated by current assets of $41,011,000 and current liabilities and funded debt combined of only $1,467,000.

Directors of Raybestos-Manhattan are scheduled to meet tomorrow for action on the dividend. It would not be surprising if the annual rate is reduced to $1 a share from the 1.60 paid heretofore. Many believe that the recent low price of the stock had discounted such a cut to some extent.

Motor Car Sales Under Year Ago

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—Resumption of trading after a long week-end found the curb listless today although prices were steady to firm. Gains were spotty and the market generally was uninteresting.

Business

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

JUST WHY HAVE so many corporations been buying their own common stocks during the past year? Why have some of them been going into debt to do it? If these companies had surplus funds why didn't they pay them out in dividends? Why were they more interested in picking up blocks of common stock than in taking advantage of opportunities to buy and retire their bonds or preferred stock at a large discount from par value?

In this column yesterday it was shown that the advantages to a corporation buying its own common stock are extremely doubtful except under certain ideal conditions. These conditions include an impregnible cash position and freedom from funded debt and preferred stock. Under such circumstances it may be to the interests of stockholders to increase their equity in the business by reducing the total number of shares outstanding. But even then it may be asked if the stockholders would not be better off to receive the surplus cash in dividends.

But these ideal conditions are rarely encountered. We find that corporations have been buying their own common stock when they did not have surplus cash. We find them buying their own stock when it had been necessary to reduce or pass dividends and when they had to borrow from banks to finance their excursions into the market for their own stocks.

Market Support Is Usual Explanation

THE EXPLANATION of the purchases of stock is found in the desire of managements to support the market. This immediately raises the question of whether or not it is a proper function of industrial management to use a corporation's funds to exert an influence on the stock market. Is it right to dissipate the funds of a company for a speculative end. It is a debatable question.

Many different circumstances undoubtedly have entered into the decisions of corporate managements to use company funds to support the market for stocks. Some of these motives may be traced to the protection of the speculative position of interests close to or identical with the management during bad periods of the bear market.

In other cases, the impelling motive had no connection with speculative activities of the management, but was taken to prevent the loss of holdings of influential interests in the company. It is easy to see that a corporation official or director who had his stock up as collateral on a loan would desire to use company funds to support the stock in a falling market when his bank was at the point of calling him.

* * *

Dangerous Precedent Being Established

IT IS NOT the purpose of this article to infer that such motives were responsible for all the buying of their own stocks by corporations last year. Undoubtedly many of these purchases were made in the belief that such action was for the general benefit of their stockholders. But the circumstances under which some purchases of stock were made do seem to indicate that the personal interests of the managements were the primary considerations in at least a few cases.

The widespread activities of corporations in the market for their own stocks is not so reprehensible for the actual damage which has been done during the past year as it is for the precedent which is being established for the future. Just what it may mean in years to come for corporations to have a position in their own stocks will be discussed in this column tomorrow.

Ore on hand at furnaces and Lake Erie docks February 1 totaled 36,893,313 tons, compared with 36,619,938 tons a year ago.

Remington Recalls Many Employes

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Feb. 23.—Remington Noiseless Typewriter Company, a Remington Rand subsidiary, is recalling a large number of employes because of production demands. A substantial order has been received.

Successful business men look to their bank for financial counsel as they look to their physician for medical advice or their attorney for legal advice. Such a relationship between a bank and its depositors is to be encouraged. Consistently practiced, it may be the means of avoiding serious pitfalls in an otherwise sound financial program.

MARKET SHOWS RESISTANCE TO PRESSURE

Losses Made Early in Day Partly Recovered Later In Sluggish Trading

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—The stock market began the new week hesitantly today, but managed to show considerable resistance to further selling pressure.

A break of more than 15 points in Auburn in the early trading was only moderately unsettling to the list as a whole. Several issues sagged a point or or two, but recovered partly as the session wore on. Trading was sluggish.

Auburn dropped to 93, then recovered a few points. Union Pacific sold off 2 points in the early trading, and showed little recuperative power. American Telephone, after selling off 1⅞, regained about half its loss. Allied Chemical, after losing nearly 2 points, more than regained its loss. United States Steel sagged a point, recovered to show a fractional gain, and again eased. A few recent bull favorites were again bid up a point or two, including the New York tractions, American Woolen preferred and McKeesport Tinplate.

News over the prolonged week-end failed to bring any fresh stimulus to the share market. The estimate by "steel" placing steel ingot output at only 25 per cent of capacity, against 27 per cent a week previously, was another discouragement to those looking for signs of seasonal business recovery, but an increase of 52 a ton in bars and plates by one Pittsburgh producer was a brighter spot in the steel outlook.

The money market was unchanged, but some observers were predicting a slight gain in the yield rates of bankers acceptances.

Among foreign developments the merger of the Danatbank and Dresdner Bank in Germany, creating a huge new institution controlled by the Reichsbank, evoked favorable comment. Strength of sterling, accompanied by rumors of cessation of French selling, was also viewed favorably.

REESER DENIES TOLEDO DEAL

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 23.—(AP.)—E. B. Reeser, president of the Barnsdall Oil Corporation, today denied reports that the concern had leased acreage from the Pure Oil Company's Seybhore refinery at Toledo for a $2,000,000 alcohol plant.

Local agents had been quoted as making announcement of the deal at Toledo yesterday. Reeser said:

"Barnsdall has not and does not intend to lease this property, nor does it intend to construct any additional plants for manufacturing alcohol.

"We have been making commercial alcohol in our Barnsdall, Okla., refinery for years, but do not intend to increase our output."

U. S. Daily Average Oil Output Falls

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 23.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended February 20 totaled 2,106,217 barrels, a decrease of 24,224 barrels daily from the preceding week, according to the "Oil and Gas Journal."

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—California crude oil output during the week ended February 20 averaged 505,850 barrels daily, a gain of 5,750 barrels over the previous week, according to the "California Oil World."

Stocks Close Dull On London Market

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(INS.)—Dull trading marked the London Stock Exchange at its close today. Gilt-edge securities were stronger than yesterday and Japanese and Chinese bonds were easier.

International Nickels and Brazilian Tractions moved up slightly. Other transatlantics were firmer. Industrials were quiet. Oils were firm, but steels were slightly off. The pound sterling closed at $3.47, unchanged from the opening.

Would Amend N. Y. State Bank Laws

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 23.—A bill to amend the banking law to provide for segregation of thrift deposits in banking institutions and setting aside of security for repayment of such deposits, has been introduced in New York State Senate by Senator Hastings.

In event of failure, suspension or liquidation, all assets against such deposits would be applied to repayment in preference to other deposits.

Atchison Loadings Reported Higher

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Loading figures for the Atchison Railway during the past four weeks have shown a distinctly better comparison with like weeks in 1931 and have increased from week to week, in contrast with the week to week decline reported in 1931.

TEXAS SCORES IN OIL SUIT

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 23.—(INS.)—Parent oil companies operating in Texas through subsidiaries, or by controlling stock in domestic companies, are subject to jurisdiction of Texas courts, Judge J. D. Moore in effect ruled today in sustaining validity of attachments on stock seized by the state in its anti-trust ouster suit.

Default judgment will be entered against three defendants unless they file answers by 2 p. m. today, Judge Moore announced. Such a judgment would involve a fine in excess of $1,000,000.

The rule establishes that the Standard Oil Companies of New Jersey and California and the Socony-Vacuum Company are defendants in the state's gigantic ouster suit charging a conspiracy among major oil companies to control retail marketing in Texas.

'Frisco to Rely On Federal Aid

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP.)—It was reported in railroad circles today that the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad, which is seeking $13,700,000 to meet early financing requirements, will rely solely on the new Reconstruction Finance Corporation for this amount.

Representatives of the Railroad Credit Corporation, it was stated, have been advised of the road's requirements, but it is understood that the road has now been referred to the larger government-sponsored body for its co-operation.

Eastman Indorses Rayburn Holding Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The Interstate Commerce Commission should be given complete jurisdiction over railroad holding companies and their activities in acquiring control over two or more railroads, Interstate Commerce Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman told the House Interstate Commerce Committee today at the resumed hearings on the Rayburn Holding Company Bill.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XVII.

Lily Lou tried to think, but her brain wouldn't work. She was just one blob of pain. Her head ached, her eyes, her very bones. She wished . . . no, no, she wouldn't wish it . . . but oh to be back again—just herself, just Lily Lou Lansing . . .

. . . Ken was driving. Just driving. Nowhere in particular. They were on a dusty, unused road, now, in the low hills, back of Piedmont. He stopped in the shade of an overhanging oak, drew out his cigaret case, reached for his lighter. But he didn't light the cigaret. He sat there, looking at it. "Well, that was sure a warm reception."

She couldn't find anything to say, so he cleared his throat, began again. "Mother's on her high horse, I can see that."

"Will your father—will he—"

"He'll do whatever my mother wants," Ken said bitterly. "He always has. Only way to keep peace, I guess. So it's all up with us, Lily Lou."

He flung out his arms stiffly, jerked down his head. She felt the convulsive heaving of his body . . . he was crying, his head in her lap.

Lily Lou didn't cry, but she felt sick and desolate. All alone, no one to turn to. She stroked his hair with soft fingers. "Dear, don't mind too much . . ."

And her heart was crying . . . "This is the man I married . . . who was going to take care of me . . . My Ken, who could sweep the world before him . . . here, crying on my lap . . ."

She stroked his hair in silence. Presently the heaving ceased. He lay still, breathing brokenly, his head heavy on her knees.

RUSH OF TENDERNESS

When at last he lifted his face and met her gaze, his cheeks flushed, his eyes blurry, such a rush of tenderness as she had never felt before washed over Lily Lou, and she didn't care that he was weak, that he had cried, that he had quailed before his mother . . . She only knew that she loved him and that she had not known that love could be like this—so weighted with pain—so binding. And the thought came to her, that even when Mrs. Sargent had had their marriage annulled she would still be tied to Ken . . . tied to him forever, by the hurt of her love, and the pain of her memories . . .

"Will you stick, Lily Lou?"

"Will I . . . stick? . . . why Ken, you said it was all over—"

"I meant it was all over, trying to make up with the folks. But Lily Lou you will stick with me, even if mother has it annulled . . . maybe she won't anyway, but Lily Lou, will you stick with me? Will you be married to a failure?"

She couldn't speak. The relief of hearing him say it . . . She smiled, tremulously. "Ken—I ought to let you go—"

"Let me . . . you just try . . . It's only that I thought of you. Suppose mother does have it annulled—it's just like her—"

"Well, suppose she does—" Lily Lou tried to think.

"Then we wouldn't be married—honey—it wouldn't be legal—"

AFRAID OF GOSSIP

Lily Lou gulped. She thought of her mother . . . her mother playing the wheezy organ in the church at home . . . and pop, always talking about taking a shot at somebody . . . he never would, of course, but he did have a gun . . . and over at the store, the men gossiping and

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing, pretty, young telephone operator lives with her married sister in moderate circumstances. She is torn between desire for an operatic career and love for the wealthy Ken Sargent, but, following a party at Ken's home, she realizes they are unsuited socially and decides to give him up. Ken overrules her objections and she accepts his proposal of marriage. They go to Woodlake for their license and the next day they return there and are married. The newlyweds go to the home of Lily Lou's parents and reveal the news. They go to Ken's mother's home and she threatens to have the marriage annulled.

Now Go On

Rufe Fletcher, who owned the store, slicing himself off a thin slice of cheese with the big knife, and nibbling on it as he talked . . . Oh, she did so want to be married, really married! Oh, why wasn't Ken just a little older, so he'd be 21 . . .

"But we could be married again in September—" she told him. She wanted to hear him say it, to reassure herself—

"Oh, yes. Only it's sort of taking a chance for you. You know—if people start talking, and well . . . people do have kids, you know. We might, and the old hens would count up—"

Lily Lou felt the hot blood mounting to her forehead. "It isn't likely," she said lightly. The same thought had occurred to her. She didn't want to consider it . . . It wouldn't do . . . Besides, just as many didn't as did . . . May and Raymond . . . Little scraps of things she had heard May say came unbidden to her mind, little half-facts. She brushed them away. She loved Ken. Her marriage was going to be all love, all tender, shimmering romance, no sordid caution . . . She was giving up a career for Ken. Ken was giving up the chance to be a rich man for her . . . And if your love wasn't bright and fine enough to make it all worth while then nothing was worth while . . .

PLANS TO GET JOB

"Well, what shall we do? Oh, Ken, it's been so funny. Right from the first we've been so sort of homeless. We had to keep away from my house, and yours, and here we are . . . and you haven't any job, and I haven't any money . . ." She began to laugh, a little hysterically, "and any minute we're likely to be arrested for not being properly married—"

She looked at the balance—almost $1,000. "That isn't so hot, but listen . . . I'll get on with Hoyt and Wickly, in the steamship end . . . They are agents for a lot of lines, and I happen to know they need a man. When I heard of it I thought 'Gee, if I could only get into that, away from the darned office and figures . . . You know—ships! That's my line, ships. Listen, Lily Lou I'll get that job, and make good and then I'll get on as foreign agent somewhere . . . there are big concerns all over the world. Listen, Lily Lou I'm all right in an office if they let me have the steamship end. I mean ships' papers, clearing ships and all that. It's because Dad never lets me that I'm no good . . . Kept me plugging at figures. I can't do that . . . But if they let me figure the other way, you know, routes and markets and stowage, I'm all right . . . I'll show Dad yet. You'll see, Lily Lou! I'll get the job . . . I was talking to Hoyt one day a couple of weeks ago when he was in our office. I told him my ideas on the South American trade. Gee, they're handling it all wrong. The European agents get it all, because the people down there aren't educated to get American goods, do you see? They think it's no good unless it comes from Europe, though they do get a certain amount of canned stuff from here, but nothing like they ought to, and loading and demurrage and all that down there is terrible . . . Now if they followed my idea about shipping . . . putting in a line . . ."

BELIEVES IN HIM

His face was bright again, his eyes sparkled, he looked happy and sure of himself. He held her hand as he talked, and once he stopped and picked up her fingers and kissed them, but it was really as though he were talking to himself . . .

"And with you to believe in me, to help me, I'll show them, honey . . . You see, nobody ever believed in me before . . . I'm just the old man's boy at our place . . . I might be at Hoyt and Wickley's too, except that Hoyt is interested in what I had to say about the trade. He said to me, 'Why doesn't your father give you a free hand, Sargent?' —just like that—Do you understand, Lily Lou? But see, Dad thinks I'm just a fool . . . Gee, I'll show him though . . . Do you believe me, Lily Lou?"

She believed him. She smiled at him tenderly. Let him talk on . . .

Out in the bay the sun set, a great red-gold lantern slipping slowly into the pale, silvery waters of the bay . . . She hardly heard what he said. Her thoughts were of other things. . . . Where they'd live, what May would say, her music . . . where would that go now? What would become of it?

"Lily Lou, you believe in me, don't you?"

He had cupped her face in his hands, was looking searchingly into her eyes, trying to read what he saw . . . her delicately oval, magnolia-white face, her deep brown eyes, darkly fringed, her sensitive scarlet mouth, parted, showing even white teeth . . .

"Yes, Ken."

Impulsively she kissed him, laid her cheek next to his.

The sun had gone into the water. The first chill breeze of night had come. She wanted her dinner, she wanted to be settled, to know where they'd be that night . . . In her mind, the worried thoughts went scrambling . . . May . . . her mother . . . Bess . . . the boys . . . May would be getting dinner now . . . Did the telegram arrive, all right?

But she said nothing. She would wait, let Ken settle these things . . . She would make herself depend on him. It would help him . . . . .

And he talked on about shipping in South America, and it got colder and darker . . .

Owney Madden

AS I WRITE this piece the New York papers are filled with the name of an individual, Owney Madden is the name. There are probably a great many people who have no idea who the man is. They glance curiously at the headlines and read that Owney Madden will be sent back to jail, if possible; they see him referred to as a racketeer—and they turn to another page.

"Well," they say, "what of it? Is that front-page news? The world is going crazy. We have a Presidential campaign on our hands, a war is looming on the horizon. Hoover refuses to make any comment on prohibition, and the papers feature a man named Owney Madden as front-page news. What is the matter with those editors?"

That's a question that I cannot answer. Owney Madden must be big news—or the staid New York Times would never have placed the yarn in a prominent position on the front sheet. Just why he is big news I am not in a position to state. All I can say is—there he is.

I am probably going to offend a great many people by writing this story. That's something I cannot help. All my columnar life, in this space, I have been offending people. Sometimes it's a pleasure. Other times, it's a bore. That's the chance you take when you're writing a column. And if you don't take chances, what's the use of living?

There are very few secret details concerning the life of Owney Madden. Some 14 years back he was convicted of a crime and sent to prison for 10 to 20 years. I was introduced to him shortly after his release. At odd times we talked together—and the more we talked, the better I liked this man . . .

What carried Owney Madden into the limelight? What made him a perfect target for the press? What focused the attention of New Yorkers upon his activities? These are other questions I would rather have answered by some one else. All I know is that it happened, and that it will continue to happen as long as the man lives.

"Why do they pick on me?" he once asked me. "What have I done and what am I doing? Let them give those boys all the publicity they want. But I am doing nothing. Why me?"

"Owney," I offered, "you are a tabbed man. Regardless of what you do or how you do it, you are now pictured as a gang leader. I don't care if all you do is lead a choir and sing in a Sunday School, you must get publicity.

"Once you get yourself into the newspaper morgues as a bad man, you'll have to suffer the consequences. If they make you the worst bad man in all America, that's your misfortune. The only thing you can do is to take it with a grin. Is that hard or easy?"

He grinned.

And I liked him more than ever . . .

Ask me why I would rather sit with Owney Madden at a dinner table than with all the stiff-fronted society birds in America and I will give you a very simple answer. Owney is interesting.

When I talk with him, I talk of life. There are no con beginnings or endings with this man. He gives you an impression, and he gives it to you straight from the shoulder. He hasn't the slightest idea of the proper way to beat around the bush. And even if he had, he wouldn't do it.

Another thing I like about Owney is the fact that he veers away from dangerous topics. If he ever wanted to—and it's a million to one he never would—he could tell plenty of things that would turn the city, the newspaper and the political government upside down. But he will not do it.

Consider, then, this man. After being released from jail, he is sent into the world and told to earn his own living. As I have written many times, this is one of civilization's most hideous jests—because there is but one ex-convict in a hundred who is able to find a decent job without being hounded day after day. However—

Owney Madden was one of the fortunates. I know nothing about the nature of his work and I have a hunch that reports of his wealth are greatly exaggerated. But I do know that, in a strictly quiet way, he is one of the most charitable men in the country. And I know also that the only people who do not like him are those who have never met him.

The years that Owney Madden spent behind the bars made the man a different human. He went in as a fighting, bull-headed kid who was proud of his reputation as the neighborhood terror. He came out a thoughtful, cool-headed man who bitterly regretted the stupidity of the past.

Because of that prison term, his desire to help and educate convicted men has become something of an obsession with him. He doesn't talk about it because he's not that kind of a guy. But you can take my word for the fact that if the man ever goes broke it will be because he has given everything away in an effort to help.

Once, not so long ago, Owney and I sat together and talked. He said he was tired of everything, and that he wished he were a million miles away. I told him I didn't really believe that. And I offered a notion.

"Perhaps, Owney," I said, "you are merely getting tired of doing favors. Why must you continue to hand out tens and twenties and fifties to every bum who makes a touch? Don't you realize that for every one you are really helping there are twenty who don't deserve your assistance?"

The man's voice was soft.

"You don't understand, Mark," was his reply. "I did a long, long stretch—and the thought of it never leaves my mind. I have plenty of enemies, and I never know when someone will pull the strings and send me back. It may never take place, but it can happen tomorrow.

"And then, if I do go back, maybe I'll get a break. Maybe some night when I'm in that cell one of those guys to whom I gave a 10 or a 20 or a 50 in better days will come along and slip me a cup of good coffee and a piece of pie. And, oh, boy, how good that tastes."

That's Owney Madden—Your Newspaper Bad Man.

* * *

I am not attempting to glorify Owney Madden in this article. He may be all that they say about him. He may be the king of racketeers. He may be this. And he may be that. Those things I do not know.

But I do know that when I grip his hand and look into his eyes, I am in the presence of a real man. And with every break going against him at the moment, I am still more than proud to call him my friend . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS Junior Komic Club

Patriotism was the keynote of Saturday's meetings of the 17 chapters of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club. Special exercises were held in commemoration of the two hundredth birthday of George Washington, and in all theaters, boy and girl scouts played prominent parts in the programs.

During the meeting at the Manor Chapter, more than 50 boy scouts of the Squirrel Hill district, headed by a flag bearer and drum and bugle corps, marched up and down the aisles of the theater, and then up to the stage, where they stood in solid mass behind the flag. The entire audience pledged allegiance to the flag, and some twelve hundred children's voices rang out in "singing of "America."

Individual scouts read original poems and essays on the life of George Washington. Prizes were awarded for composition and delivery.

Manager William Pearce, of the Harris (Diamond street) Theater, held a big reception for members of his chapter. This chapter has been meeting, for the past few weeks, at the Davis Theater, but are now back in their original home—the Harris. Joe Mowod, grand jester, and his board of governors, were very much at home on the stage of the Harris and assisted Mr. Pearce in the distribution of prizes, etc. Mr. Pearce and Joe are arranging a big program for the next meeting.

Prince (Ambridge): Frank Watchel, Steve Telowsky, Mildred Borzewski, Elearnor Jarcynk, John Harrison, Ralph Nolend, Frank Pager, Edward Voyzank, Helen Kurash, Mary Lissie, Dick Robertson, James Russell Fox, Jr., William McHenry, Helen Redwald, Mary Gozur, Caeser Dawson.

Grand (Greensburg): Burrel Mason, Norris Craig.

South Hills: June Kennedy, Hays Bowser.

Mt. Oliver: Leonard Bench.

Manor: Allen Fireman, Paul Rogal.

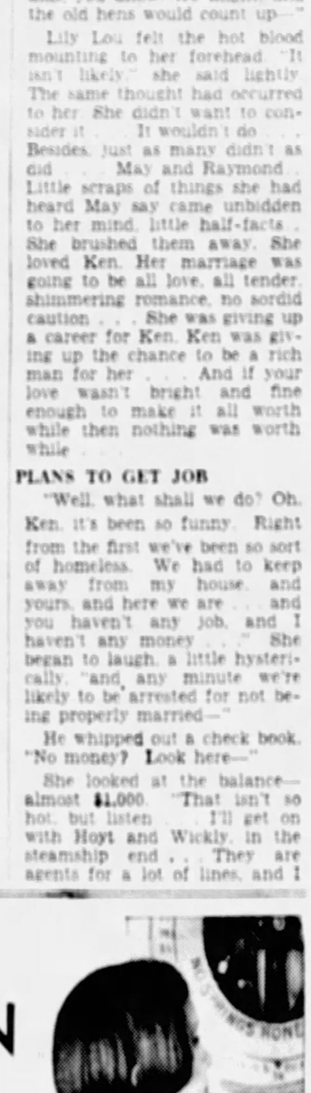
When CHILDREN



—don't gain weight
—don't grow strong
—don't keep well

The stomach is not to blame when a child is finicky about food. Nor is every sluggish girl or boy constipated. Instead of a lot of medicine, give a little pure fig syrup. You'll see a change in twenty-four hours! In a couple of weeks, your youngster will have the appetite of a young animal!

For Any Sluggish Child

Pale, sickly children whose tongues are always coated, and who are never really hungry, are suffering from stasis. That means a sluggish colon; a colon clogged with waste. They need the "California-treatment." You can give this treatment yourself, anytime, anywhere; it's simple. Every druggist has California fig syrup all bottled, with full directions for a babe of two years or child in his teens. Its delicious taste makes it delightful to use; no child ever tired of it.

Start tonight, giving enough to cleanse the colon of every bit of poisonous waste. Then a spoonful or so, every other day, until the child's appetite, color, weight, and general health tell you all sluggishness or constipation has been conquered.

When a bad cold or severe sickness has sapped a child's strength and stamina, remember California fig syrup.

IMPORTANT!

MUSICAL MILLARDS TAKE LAMAR BY STORM

(From the Lamar, Missouri, Democrat)

The Evangelistic Meeting under the direction of the Musical Millards, will continue through this week. There have been several confessions, and a packed house last night. The Millards' selections on the xylophone each night are an inspiration. Mrs. Millard is a fine crayon artist, and while her husband brings a message in song she draws the picture in colors. The church walls are adorned with these pictures, which are beautiful.

Tomorrow night Mrs. Millard will make one of her "rag pictures," which is a new art, and one that will surprise you.

Worse Than War

There Is Danger That We May Become Callous to the Continuous Slaughter by Automobiles.

Four persons died over the week-end from injuries received in automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district. Many persons were seriously hurt in auto crashes during the same period.

They are so common, in fact, that there is danger we may become callous to them and accept them as more or less to be expected—something to regret, but to shrug our shoulders at as beyond our power to remedy.

The Travelers' Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., has just issued a compilation showing that the casualties of the American Expeditionary Forces in 18 months of the World War were 50,510 dead and 182,674 wounded, while automobile casualties in the United States in the 18 months ended December 31, 1931, were 53,650 dead and 1,576,840 injured.

The death and injury total from motor crashes last year is placed at 1,032,000, which falls little short of the figure for the combined populations of Nevada, Delaware, Wyoming and the District of Columbia.

These statistics compel thought. We would be very much concerned over such losses in war. They are none the less losses because they occur in peace.

Unquestionably most of these deaths and injuries could be prevented by the exercise of a little more care by motorists and pedestrians.

Pittsburgh's Share

It Is Cheering to Learn of the Part This Community Will Play in the Building of Radio City.

There is cheerful industrial news for the people of the Pittsburgh district in the report of the materials that will be used in the construction of Radio City, the Rockefeller project that is to occupy three squares in New York City.

Pittsburgh and its suburbs are to furnish a large share of the 660,000 tons of material that will be used in building the 70-story office building, the world's largest theater, the International Music Hall and other structures of Radio City.

Fabricating plants at Ambridge will provide structural steel, of which 125,000 tons will be needed. The steel will have been turned out at local rolling mills before going to Ambridge.

Part of the plaster will come from Pennsylvania. The lath of wire or expanded metal supporting the plaster will be a Pittsburgh product.

Part if not all of the 125 miles of iron and steel pipe in the buildings of Radio City will come from McKeesport tube mills.

There is work for thousands of Pittsburghers in this project alone. An extensive building boom would restore prosperity to the district.

A Town Hall Needed

Louis Seibold mentioned in his story in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday about the "Garner-for-President" mass meeting in San Antonio, Tex., that the municipal auditorium in which it was held seats more than 7,000 persons.

That is more than twice the seating capacity of Pittsburgh's largest auditorium and serves to remind us how far we are behind even much smaller cities in our ability to accommodate a large meeting.

The inability of a community of Pittsburgh's size, a city of 669,817 inhabitants, to accommodate more than 3,500 persons comfortably indoors, detracts from our prestige, to say the least.

Pittsburgh should have a Town Hall seating 15,000 people or more. The people voted $6,000,000 of bonds to pay for the construction of such an auditorium, and the County Commissioners will be remiss in their duty if they do not build it.

A Serious Accusation

State Police Are Charged With the Same Kind of Tactics That Have Brought Discredit on the City Force.

The charge is made in connection with the sensational Donohoe murder case in Fayette County—a case with important political ramifications—that the state police "kidnaped" one of the persons involved and held him for a week incommunicado, without privilege of counsel.

We hope the charge is unfounded. The state police have borne a good reputation and it would be disappointing to find them guilty of the same kind of lawless tactics that have brought such discredit on the city police.

The public expects the police to obtain evidence that will lead to the conviction of criminals, but it expects them to obtain it by legitimate means. The "third degree" is not permissible, and to hold a prisoner incommunicado for days and not permit him to see a lawyer savors of the same thing. The courts have repeatedly forbidden such treatment of a prisoner.

Irene Shrader's Grave

Multitudes Visit Burial Place of Executed Woman, but Murder Has Not Diminished Noticeably.

This is the anniversary of the execution of Irene Shrader and Glenn Dague. They were put to death in the electric chair at Rockview a year ago for killing Corp. Brady Paul, of the state police.

A multitude of people who have kept in mind the date of Mrs. Shrader's execution commemorated the anniversary, it seems, by visiting her grave at Bellaire, O., yesterday.

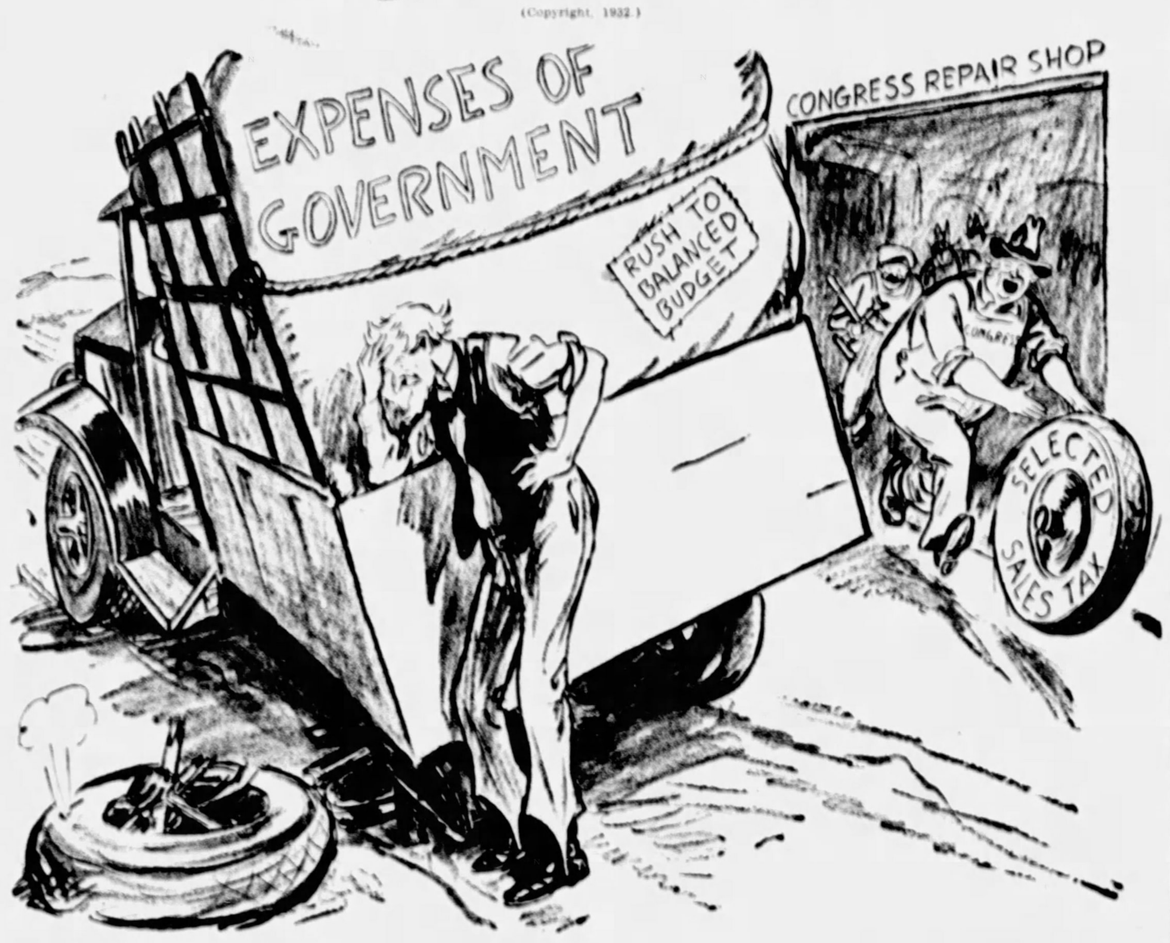
Hundreds of thousands of persons in Pennsylvania and adjoining states were made very thoughtful by the killing of Mrs. Shrader by the Commonwealth, and many have not let the passing of a year make them forget.

If the theory of the advocates of capital punishment is correct the execution should have prevented the commission of other murders.

But there has been no noticeable diminishing of murder.

Congress to the Rescue

(Copyright, 1932.)



Those members of Congress who have given close study to the national revenue-raising of Canada, France, the Philippines, several other foreign countries and 14 of the States in the Union, have become convinced that A SELECTED SALES TAX is the answer to the prayers for relief of the harassed budget balancers.

They have seen the light and are ready to offer the nation a selected manufacturer's sales tax, exempting the necessities of life and certain selected manufactured articles.

This, the enlightened members of the sub-committee of the Ways and Means Committee of the House are convinced, has become a necessity in the tax plan. It is the safest, simplest, easiest to collect and the least painful of all taxation, and it will yield approximately $500,000,000 yearly.

Let the other members of Congress study the Canadian plan, learn of its success and be ready to rush the Selected Sales Tax into operation when the revenue bill comes before the House.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

His Courage

Not his the heart untouched by any fear,
The soul that goes serene in strength and pride
Assured of triumphs waxing year on year
No flags unfurled to lead him to the fray,
No pulsing drums to lift his spirit high,

For him the valor of some secret force
Impelling him to do the thing he dreads;
To follow on a dark and destined course,
To enter where the stealthy shadow spreads—
The deep, insistent urge that never fails,

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. — Two outstanding Exhibit A's in scientific reducing are Paul Whiteman and Fannie Hurst. Miss Hurst's figure now suggests one of those exotic, pantherine ladies with an international past, slinking sinuously through a Noel Coward drama.

A year ago, if not stout, she could tactfully be called plump. Even with avoirdupois, however, she presented that apple-cheeked attractiveness of the Junoesque. Today Miss Hurst is wand-like. More than 40 pounds have vanished without the scrawny shrivel marking the usual rigid diet.

Whiteman has taken the scales for a toss of some 80 pounds, and, not satisfied banishing this excess poundage, is striving for greater thinness. He further threatens to remove the misplaced eyebrow he calls a mustache. Few would recognize the jazz king as the Whiteman of five years ago.

I recall his futile effort at that time to join me through the door of a kitten-powered taxi along the leafy boulevard des Capucines. Miss Hurst is said to be saving details of her shrinkage for a magazine. As "a stirring human document" it lingers in a pigeon hole waiting final touches.

Paul is not so secretive. His reason for reducing was largely sentimental. When he married the lovely and Titian-haired Margaret Livingston she told him frankly he was too fat and what was he going to do about it? Paul had been extremely fond of his beer and skittles.

His first effort to achieve synthetic svelteness was to abstain from all liquor. He began each meal with a half grapefruit. For breakfast he has grapefruit, thin unbuttered toast and coffee. He eats no lunch and instead of tearing into a sirloin for dinner has only a modest and single chop.

Otherwise, at the evening meal he eats pretty much what he likes. For instance, recently at my own table he made way with a hefty crock of ice cream with commendable gusto. Both Whiteman and Miss Hurst have told friends they never felt better.

* * *

At a dinner the other evening, they were reviving Montana tales told by Charlie Russell, the western painter. One concerned a chicken-breasted and alkali-gnawed horse thief who was to be hanged from the hoisting beam at the second story of a general store. Just as they were about to drop him into eternity, a drawling ranchman stepped to the thief's side, held up his hand and delivered this soft benison: "Just a minnit, boys. Let's temper this hangin' with a mite of mercy!" And he dropped an anvil in the culprit's pants.

* * *

There was a neighbor who kept Russell awake many nights practicing on a mail-order French horn. After one particularly torturous session, Russell appeared at dawn in his doorway, his eyes heavy from loss of sleep. To a passing friend he inquired if he'd care to buy a French horn. "Don't answer too quick," he said. "This is a bargain—a hide goes with it."

* * *

On Charlie Russell's last visit to New York, he boarded a thundering subway at Grand Central with a friend. After holding to a strap a few blocks he observed: "The way to get a seat in this hell-fired thing is to climb into one of the cars when they are building it."

* * *

When George Ade was in town a year ago, he accepted a dinner invitation to the country home of a friend down on Long Island, whose wife he had never met. He noticed a peculiarly glazed look in her eyes, but when cocktails were served she murmured: "Not for me, thanks." Her subsequent silence was embarrassing. It developed she was a bathroom drinker, corned to the armpits. The husband tried to gloss things over with nervous talk. "We raise everything here on the place," he chirruped, "vegetables, chickens, eggs, cream, and we even make our own cheese." At this the lady arose, swayed, inquired: "Whose a piece of cheese?"—and teetered haughtily from the room.

* * *

Then there's Esmond O'Brien's story of the street-car stew, yanking a flask from his hip and offering it to a preacher, quietly reading a book, next to him. The parson shook his head. After an interval, the flask was offered again. "I don't drink," said the reverend gentleman curtly. "Izzat so?" hiccuped the drunk. "Why, you soandso, you're drunk as a cootie right now. Look at your collar hindside foremost."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"MARRIED WOMEN SHOULD NOT WORK!" cry the soreheads. "There oughtta be a law against them!

"They keep jobs away from men and single girls and widows with little children.

Over and over you have heard that well known chorus. But now comes Marta, with another angle.

"It's all right to yell against the married woman working," says she, "BUT HOW ABOUT THE GIRL WHO CAN'T GET MARRIED AT ALL UNLESS SHE DOES WORK?

"There are thousands of girls in that fix, and I'm one of them. What are we to do? Wait for years and years until we gradually save up enough to make our start? If we do that, we'll be grayheaded when we hit the altar. Or shall we make our start now, working side by side as our pioneer fathers and mothers did?"

It's a fine letter on a grim problem. What's YOUR answer?

Dear Miss Robinson:

These single girls—and men—who do so much howling about married women who work, give me a pain. They do a lot of yawping about "married women hogging all the jobs."

BUT I WONDER IF THEY EVER STOP TO THINK THAT IF MARRIED WOMEN WERE THROWN OUT OF THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WORLD THERE WOULD BE A LOT OF PEOPLE WHO COULDN'T GET MARRIED? It's quite likely they haven't, but it's true.

I know three different couples who couldn't have married if the girls hadn't been willing to put their shoulders to the wheel and help; and I'm in the same boat myself, so that makes four. If I'd known I would be fired for marrying, there wouldn't have been any marriage, because my husband was only making a very small salary—$31 a week. I get $23, so we can live fairly well and save a little. Maybe we COULD have got along in some pig hole on his salary, but poverty and dejection don't seem to me to be much of a basis for a happy marriage—not when there is anything you can do to avoid them.

I say, thank goodness that there are a good many concerns that realize this situation, and won't fire their girls if they marry.

All three of my friends, and myself, would like to stay at home and raise families if we could; but we can't—yet. Not till we save a little more.

IT MAY NOT BE TRUE THAT TWO PEOPLE CAN LIVE AS CHEAPLY AS ONE, BUT IT CERTAINLY IS TRUE THAT TWO CAN LIVE TOGETHER CHEAPER THAN THEY CAN LIVE APART.

Keeping folks from marrying won't make any more jobs, either, because if they can't marry they still have to eat, so they'll keep right on hanging onto the jobs they have. I fail to see where being married should make any difference in whether a woman works or not.

And here is another angle these calamity howlers don't consider, either. I WONDER IF THEY REALIZE HOW MANY GIRLS AND MEN DRIFT INTO DANGEROUS AFFAIRS WHEN MARRIAGE HAS TO BE POSTPONED? It happens in every crowd, Miss Robinson. And can you blame them?

They love each other, and they want to be together, like Nature meant they should. But there isn't enough money, and so they go on and on—and some day the loneliness gets them. They don't mean to do wrong. To them it is as sacred as marriage. But gradually that sort of a secret affairs loses its sacredness; and by the time they can marry, everything is spoiled.

There's more than one side to this question, and if these people who complain about "two envelope families" would face facts, they might be surprised.

Anyway, I'll gamble than nine out of ten of these single girls, who are so indignant about us wives working, would do the same thing if they fell in love and were confronted with the same situation! THEY WOULDN'T WANT TO WAIT YEARS APART, EITHER! MARTA.

There's her story, and she's sticking to it! Now YOU tell one.

Isn't It So?

Whipped to a Task: Sales Tax: Politics

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

For years it has been common knowledge that the government at Washington is organized in an unbusiness-like manner, with needless bureaus and duplications of duties among them, and that any private corporation would make short shrift of the waste. Almost a generation ago Senator Aldrich announced that he could save millions a year through a reorganization.

In the administration of Mr. Coolidge we heard much of this, but nothing was done.

In the campaign of 1928, Mr. Smith, who had achieved greatly in the reorganization of the machinery of government in New York, made the reorganization of the National government one of his major themes. To meet this, Mr. Hoover tried to match him in promises. And Mr. Hoover was elected.

And the promise was forgotten. Nothing was done or attempted or suggested. Two months ago Mr. Smith in a newspaper article took the administration to task for its failure to do anything; and immediately afterwards the President said he intended to do something.

Then, the other day, Speaker Garner announced that the House was cutting down on the estimates of the departments and planning consolidations to eliminate as many duplications as possible.

And running true to form, the President immediately sends a message to Congress proposing the merging of bureaus and asking that it be entrusted to him. Others lead; the President follows.

Mr. Hoover Submits a Plan

Had the President any thought of doing anything of the sort he should have announced his program two years ago; for, by announcing it now, he seems to be merely trying to interfere with the plans of the House, which actually is working on a plan. The plan the President announces means reorganization, but it may seriously be doubted whether it means saving. Apparently it means the discharge of a number of clerks on small salaries at the bottom, and the creation of other jobs with very large salaries at the top.

There is nothing new in the President's message; the subject was exhausted by his opponent for the Presidency four years ago. He has known of these conditions ever since he has been in office, but he made no move.

Evidently he had no thought of serious action when Congress met in December, else he would have proposed reorganization as one of the functions of the present session. He permitted the House Committee on Appropriations to go ahead with its onerous work until about completed, and now toward the first of March he submits a plan—having heard from Garner the plans of the House. A general reorganization this session is now almost impossible, and the House leaders will determine for themselves what will be done now. The President's eleventh hour message has the appearance of a campaign gesture.

Easy to Get The Politics

The special sub-committee of the Ways and Means Committee struggling with the problem of raising the revenue to meet the enormous deficit of the Republican administration is prepared to propose a sales tax that is expected to raise $600,000,000. This tax will be practically a general tax, only the bare necessities of life being exempt. This tax will be paid on purchases.

It is found that the money necessary to meet the administration deficit cannot be found by greater increases in income taxes in the higher brackets or in corporation taxes since it is an easy matter for Big Money to evade its obligations. It is not a question of what ought to be, but what can be.

Meanwhile Odgen Mills and the administration are attempting to capitalize for their own benefit the necessities imposed upon the Democratic House by the deficit of the Republican administration; for Mr. Mills announces that he still "stands firmly by his original recommendation for a selective rather than a general sales tax." It is easy to get the politics in that.

Time Is Near to 'Cry Havoc—'

And the Democrats cannot indefinitely "postpone politics" either. They have put politics aside for months to dedicate their whole thought and energy to remedial legislation to meet a national crisis for which they are not responsible. Never has the House moved more smoothly, more rapidly, than this one under the able leadership of the Garners, the Raineys and the Crisps.

But if they had any thought that this recessing of politics on their part would mean a recess on the part of the administration party they had a rude awakening when the Republicans seized on Lincoln's Birthday to claim credit for everything the Democrats had done. With the bank bill out of the way soon, it will be time for the Democrats to turn their batteries on the administration—unless they agree with the Republicans that it is beyond reproach.

The campaign this fall will be fought on the record of the administration; on its promises and its fruits; on its futilities and fallacies; on its ineptitude, lack of leadership and statesmanship and vision and courage; on the stupidity of some of its policies; on its sacrifice of our foreign market at the crack of the whip of Mr. Grundy; on its misrepresentation of trade conditions on the eve of the crash.

The Democrats were challenged with a rare audacity on Lincoln's Birthday when the Emancipator was pushed into the wings to give Mr. Hoover the center of the stage; and the Democrats will soon accept the challenge or throw up the sponge. The Democrats have been wise in postponing politics until needed legislation to meet the administration's crash and the administration's deficit is enacted; but the time is near to "cry havoc and let loose the dogs of war."

Intense Nationalism Is Being Preached

The election results in Ireland are significant of the spirit that has never been stronger in every nation across the sea—the spirit of intense nationalism. This is particularly true among the young men and women—in all the nations.

It was the youth of Italy that swept Mussolini into power—because Mussolini stood for Italy first and all the time; and youth that is sweeping Hitler toward power in Germany—because he stands for Germany against the world; and it was youth in Ireland that flocked to the standard of De Valera—because he stands for Ireland even against the Empire.

In every nation but the United States intense nationalism is being preached today; and, whether this is right or wrong, it is a condition, not a theory, that confronts us here.

Col. Knox, of the President's anti-hoarding committee was right when he said that we have a headache here from eye strain peering across the sea to see what we can do to help the people over there; no nation over there is bothering much about how to help us out of the desperate condition we find ourselves.
